Toys for Tots kicks off annual campaign

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

Making a difference in the lives of children has long been the goal of the U.S. Marine Corps Reserve's Toys for Tots program. The program has evolved over the last several years to include more community participation and awareness of the effort which puts smiles on the faces of thousands of children each holiday season.

The Lake County Toys for Tots campaign kicked-off with a ceremony at Gurnee Mills the day following Thanksgiving. This year's Lake County campaign is being co-sponsored by Kimberly Financial Services, Inc., mortgage specialist of Gurnee. Dorothy Desmond is the founder and president of the company and has been a long-time supporter of the Toys for Tots campaign.

"I've always been pleased with the program," said Desmond. "I want to help those less fortunate than you or I."

Kimberly Financial Services, Inc., has served as a barrel site for many years. This year, following a presentation made by Marine Corps Captain Jim Stinson of the Waukegan Marine Corps Reserve Center, Desmond offered to serve on the campaign committee.

"He explained that the Marine Corps were asking local communities for more support to increase the program," said Desmond. "I've always felt sorry for a child who is not going to have a Christmas present and wanted to get more involved."

From that initial contact Desmond didn't necessarily envision the role of co-sponsor, but it is a role she has embraced wholeheartedly.

This season marks the 47th year of the Toys for Tots program. "The Marine Corps has moved to make the campaign a community-based program," said Sgt. Michael Pucci. "The community is taking a leadership role in helping to bring the program to the community. I believe it is a positive step because the more people who become involved with the program the more toys that will be donated and provided to needy children."

This is the second year Pucci has been involved with the program in Lake County. "It's a great program because it brings a smile to a child's face who otherwise would not have had a great Christmas."

Kimberly's Financial Services, Inc.'s role as co-sponsor has included publicity, assisting with the kick-off drive and finding volunteers to sort toys after they are donated.

"We are looking for organizations or individuals that are willing to send volunteers to an undisclosed but safely secured Gurnee location to assist with toy sorting," said Desmond. "We need people for a night per week throughout the month of December."

Desmond also arranged for the donation of barrels for the drive from Russell Stanley Manufacturing.

On hand for the kick-off event were former Chicago Bear Leslie Frazier, Santa Claus and Bugs Bunny, county political representatives and Miss, Junior Miss and Little Miss queens from several Lake County towns including Waukegan, Gurnee, Mundelein, Vernon Hills and Libertyville.

Realtors help to make holiday wishes come true

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Once again, ERA-Stateline Realty in Antioch is sponsoring the Wish Tree and needs your help. This is the third year that the Wish Tree is available to area residents.

The Wish Tree is trimmed with the names of children and senior citizens who may not otherwise receive their special Christmas wishes. The children's and senior's names are placed on an ornament, and by volunteering to be a Santa's helper, residents can make those wishes come true.

Approximately 200 names decorate this year's tree which is located in the lobby of the office. The names were provided by the Sharing Center.

To be one of Santa's helpers, stop by the ERA-Stateline Realty Inc. office and pick up an ornament. The office is located at the See WISHES page A10

Construction to begin on Metra train yard

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

According to Metra officials, work is scheduled to begin next month on the train storage and maintenance yard in Antioch for the new Metra service. The new line will run on the Wisconsin Central freight tracks, which has not seen passenger service since January of 1965, when the Soo Line's "Laker" made its last run.

"We have designed the yard to conform with the natural terrain," explained Chris Knapton of Metra. The facility will be located approximately 100 yards from the Illinois-Wisconsin state line and the Army Corps of Engineers has okayed the project.

Metra has awarded a $4.8 million contract to Rausch Construction Company of Broadview, Illinois, to build the train storage and maintenance yard. Construction plans include a pre-engineered building of approximately 5,780 square feet which will include a fleet upkeep facility. The building will also contain a luncheon room, locker rooms and wash room for Metra employees.

The train storage yard will have eight-tracks with asphalt platforms, standby power, lighting, water service, drainage, and parking. Completion of the yard is expected by November 1995.

The new commuter line will have seven trips daily each way from Antioch and Chicago initially. These will include three peak-period/peak-direction trains, one reverse peak train, and three additional off-peak trains in each direction. In plain English, this means three early morning trains from Antioch to Chicago, three evening trains from Chicago to Antioch, one Chicago to Antioch train in the a.m. rush hour, one Antioch to Chicago in the evening rush hour, and three scattered trips each way during the day.

The maiden voyage of the new train service is expected in April of 1996. The trip will initially include stops at Antioch, Lake Villa, Round Lake Beach, Libertyville, Mundelein, Vernon Hills, Prairie View, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling, Prospect Heights, Deval, O'Hare, River Grove, and See METRA page A10

Legal action proceeds on unit school district

ALEC JUNG
Staff Reporter

Lake Villa Unit District backers are waiting for Lake County Circuit Court to make a decision on the administrative review filed by Millburn School District.

David Liebowitz, of Freeborn and Peters, is representing the Committee of Ten, the sponsors of the unit district. He said two things will probably go in the Committee of Ten's favor.

One of them is Judge Stephen Walter's decision to allow prospective unit district school board members to file election petitions now. They can be on the April ballot if the judge rules in their favor.

Also, the first hearing is scheduled for Jan. 12. Liebowitz is confident Walters can make a decision before the final filing date for spring elections on Jan. 16.

"Last time Judge Walters ruled on the Highland Park school consolidation quickly and under trying circumstances," Liebowitz said. "He said 'this one would be a piece of cake.'"

Already Millburn has filed a complaint claiming the decision by State Superintendent Dr. Joseph Spagnolo is unfair and should be overturned. Millburn's attorney, Jim Bakk, will file a brief explaining Millburn's reason why the decision should be overturned.

The judge must rule Spagnolo's decision is arbitrary and capricious to overturn his decision. However, if Millburn loses, it has the right to petition to Appeals Court.

The Lake Villa Unit District proposal calls for a K-12 district covering most of Lake Villa Township with the exception of Gavin, Emmons and Round Lake School Districts.

The unit district would take in parts of Grant, Grayslake and Antioch high school districts. Lake Villa Elementary, parts of Antioch Elementary and Millburn Districts would be in the district.

Liebowitz said the judge may allow oral argument or take the matter under advisement on Jan. 12 or a decision could be rendered.

Variation extension approved for residence

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

An extension on the time limit for final approval of a variation needed for a single residence project on Ida Street has been okayed by the Antioch Village Board. The variation, which had expired Nov. 21, has been extended until Feb. 20.

The variation request was to split the 90-foot property into two 45-foot lots, and allow a 5-foot variance on each. The developer is planning to build a single dwelling residence instead of a multi-family initially proposed. Two board members had objections to that proposal.

"It is just too small to build a house on," said Trustee Ron Cunningham at an earlier meeting. Trustee Don Amundsen concurred, "I don't want to split up a 90-foot lot into two 45 foot lots. . . It is simply to make money for the developer."

In the end, the variances were also approved by a vote of four to two. However, the original request for a multi-dwelling project brought to light the zoning of that neighborhood. As residents of Ida Street were out in force, voicing their concerns about renters, parking issues, and general character of the neighborhood they learned their own property was zoned R-5, multi-family.

As a result, a number of property owners petitioned the Antioch Village Board to have their zoning changed to R-1. The Village Board of Antioch made the difficult decision Monday night to rezone the north side of Ida Street from R-5 to R-3.

The decision was difficult because, despite a majority of residents requesting the change, in order to avoid spot zoning, two property owners against the change were rezoned against their wishes. The rezoning encompassed 12 properties from 257 to 327 Ida. Eight of the homeowners had petitioned the board.

Pier permit granted after long wait

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

A permit from the Illinois Department of Transportation was granted to Felters Subdivision after a nearly four year wait. The subdivision had been seeking the permit to replace the antiquated piers already in place.

"Those piers were built in 1938," said Association President Carole Jonites. "They no longer function for today's boats."

The permit, authorizing the project, included some special conditions including the requirement to apply for other necessary permits which may be needed to complete the project. In addition, the new piers will need to be marked with reflective devices.

The pier replacement committee includes Mary Jones, Ed Ericson, Ron Ludwig, Wes Jones, and Rich Schnelle. In addition, new County Board Member Judy Martini assisted the group.

"I have to give Judy Martini credit," said Jonites. "She helped us out."

The new piers will be angled to allow better access to boats. The piers at the subdivision are for the use of association members only. The subdivision fronts Lake Catherine in Antioch Township.

Jonites said she hopes construction can begin soon. "We will be moving forward on the project," she said.

BRIEFS

Scholarship competition

Jon Schultz II has been selected as Antioch Community High School's nominee for the Century III Leaders Scholarship. His selection was based on activities, leadership, and community service. Schultz will now go on to compete at the state level where one winner receives a $1,000 scholarship, sponsored by the National Association of Secondary Schools and the Sylvan Learning Centers.

Matt Fasana, of ACHS, has been selected as the school's nominee for the Principal's Leadership Award Scholarship. Winners will be announced next spring.

Service recognition

Antioch Township Supervisor and former County Board Member Jim Fields will be honored on Friday during the special call meeting of the County Board. A resolution will be presented recognizing Field's outstanding service.

Veterans memorial

The new tank for the Antioch Veteran's Memorial has arrived and will be placed at the site of the old memorial. The memorial location is on Toft and Orchard Streets.

Highway crews gear up for winter white stuff

A reminder to Antioch Village residents that the snow parking regulations are in effect. It is unlawful to park any vehicle on any street in the village for a period longer than three minutes for the loading and unloading of passengers, or for 30 minutes for property, at any time after snow begins to fall and exceeds one inch of thickness.

There is no snow parking ordinance for Antioch Township roads. According to Mark Ring, Antioch Township road commissioner, there are generally few parking problems. No ordinance exists because the township does not have its own police department to enforce it. The township relies on the Lake County Sheriff's Department.

Keep the wreath red in Antioch

The Antioch Fire Department will participate in the national "Keep the Wreath Red" program. The program is sponsored by local fire departments to promote fire safety.

Antioch's "Red Wreath" will be displayed outside the fire station, located on Orchard Street. The wreath will be decorated completely with red lights to start off the holidays. Should the Antioch Fire Department respond to a fire caused by holiday decorations or other holiday festivities, a red light will be changed to a white light.

Residents can help to keep the wreath red by practicing fire safe procedures and insuring that your family has a safe holiday.—by MARY FOLEY

Madrigal Dinner

This year dates for the Annual Madrigal Dinner are Dec. 10 and Dec. 11. Enjoy the Madrigal Ensemble, duets and pageantry, magic and tumbling, stories and song, fine food and over 125 carolers. Call Antioch Community High School at 395-1421 for more information.

Old magazines wanted

Antioch Upper Grade School is looking for your old magazines. The magazines will be used for various projects which require cut-out pictures. Pictures of people, animals, places and things will be especially appreciated. Call 395-1905.

Great work

While the final total is not yet available, the magazine sale earned roughly $6,000 for the W. C. Petty's PTO. The money will be spent on things for the school which will benefit the children. Great work, everyone!

That's who!

Several teachers from Antioch Community High School have been named in Who's Who Among American Teachers. Lauri Hargrove, Larry Kamin, David Monke, Elizabeth Overocker, Steven Scott, and Judith Smithhisler have been honored. Congratulations.

Christmas greenery

Antioch Lower Grade School will be selling various Christmas greenery again this year. The selection has expanded and will include wreaths, swags, poinsettias, and cyclamens supplied by Koeune's Greenhouse of Antioch. Students are being asked to sell only to family and close friends. If you are interested in purchasing items and do not know a student at the school, call 395-0845.

Collecting soup labels

Antioch Grade School will once again begin a Campbell's Soup label drive. Last year the school was able to buy an overhead projector. Only the front portion of the label is needed.

Judge allows petitions for unit school board candidates

ALEC JUNGE

Staff Reporter

A ruling by a Lake County circuit judge will allow petitions for residents to run for the school board pending the review of the Lake Villa unit district decision.

The school board petitions will be available by December at Lake County Superintendent of Schools office, according to Joyce Heneberry of the Committee of Ten, the supporters of a unit district, who have petitioned to get the measure on the April ballot.

Lake County Judge Stephen Walter's ruling allows residents interested in becoming a member of the school board a chance to petition for the school board while he reviews if the issue should be on the ballot in April.

The move will allow a list of school board candidates to be ready for the ballot if the Administrative Review rules in the Committee of Ten's favor, according to Joyce Heneberry, vice president of the Committee of Ten.

Millburn School board petitioned for an Administrative Review of State Superintendent Joseph Spagnolo's decision to allow the unit district on the April ballot.

Walter is expected to make a decision by Jan. 12. The decision will be made in time for the unit district to make the ballot if Walter rules in favor of the Committee of Ten.

However, Millburn could appeal the decision and prevent the measure from reaching the ballot.

The proposed unit district would cover most of Lake Villa Township with the exception of Gavin, Round Lake and Emmons school districts. It would take in all of Lake Villa Elementary District and portions of Grant, Antioch and Grayslake high school districts.

The election petitions must be turned in on the week of Jan. 16 to Jan. 23.

ACHS Tom Tom earns award

For the second time in the past two weeks Antioch High School's student newspaper, the Tom Tom, came away with the top award in high school newspaper competition. This time honors were bestowed to the journalism students at ACHS by the Quill and Scroll Society at the Univ. of Iowa, in Iowa City.

The Tom Tom earned perfect scores in the areas of display and design and business practices, and narrowly missing perfect scores in the areas of policy and guidelines, and coverage, by one and two points respectively. The paper racked up a total of 993 out of a possible 1,000 points, and received the George H. Gallup Award, Quill and Scroll's highest honor.

Quill and Scroll is a national association, and the Tom Tom was in competition with schools having enrollments of over 1,800 students from all 50 states.

"I'm really pleased with the achievements we've seen here," said newspapers adviser Michael Gordy. "I guess it just shows what can be accomplished when talent, hard work, commitment, and motivation all come together in the same classroom."

Police Beat

Persons charged with a crime are innocent until proven guilty in a court of law.

ANTIOCH Fugitive from justice

After a routine stop for a loud muffler on Nov. 25, police found open beer, marijuana, and outstanding warrants for possession and theft. Arrested was the driver, Eric W. Burns, 19, of Round Lake Park, who was charged with illegal transportation of alcohol, possession of alcoholic beverage by a minor, and possession of cannabis. Burns was released on bond. Ian D. Dorbeck, 21, of Antioch, was charged with illegal transportation of liquor and being a fugitive from justice. The outstanding warrants were from Rock Island. Dorbeck was taken to Lake County Jail to await extradition.

Suspended license

Christine E. Rotwica, 21, of Antioch, was arrested on Nov. 27, after officers observed her making a right turn on Ida without using a signal. After checking her license, police learned her license was suspended in Wisconsin and she had no valid Illinois license. In the car with Rotwica, were two juveniles who were charged with curfew violations. Rotwica was charged with operating an uninsured motor vehicle, operating a vehicle with a suspended license, and operating a vehicle with no valid license. All were released on bond.

Joseph S. Collett, 24, of Antioch, was charged with improper lane usage and driving while license is suspended. Collett was stopped when he was traveling eastbound on a westbound left turn lane on Nov. 24. He was released on bond.

Transporting alcohol

On Nov. 26, Janice J. Patla, 37, of Antioch and Shannon R. Anderson, 37, of Bristol, Wis. were arrested by the Antioch Police Department. Patla was observed making a turn without using her signals. When she stopped her car and police approached, the officer saw a partially full open bottle of beer on the seat. After a field sobriety test, which Patla passed successfully, Anderson, Patla's friend, arrived at the scene. Anderson, refused to leave the scene, and after repeated warnings, she was charged with leaving a motor vehicle unattended and obstruction of police. Patla was charged with illegal transportation of liquor and received a warning for failing to signal. Both women were released on bond.

Disorderly conduct

Robert D. Lindsay, 19, of Antioch, was arrested on Nov. 27 when the vehicle he was traveling in ran out of gas near Deep Lake Road and Route 173. According to the complaint, Lindsay ran out in front of another vehicle on Route 173, jumping up and down and screaming. When police located Lindsay and the other passenger of the car, officers noted a strong smell of alcohol on Lindsay's breath. He was charged with consumption of alcohol by a minor and disorderly conduct. He was released on bond.

Warrant arrest

Robert A. Brundage, 21, of Antioch, was arrested as a result of an outstanding warrant for battery on Nov. 26. Brundage was brought to the officer's attention when his car broke down on Hillside and Route 59. Brundage was transported to Lake County Jail.

Trunk release does in suspect

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

A mistake by a driver led Lindenhurst Police to find four stolen tires.

Kenneth Berg, 20, of Lindenhurst was arrested by police last Monday for theft. He was charged with stealing four tires from Antioch Tire in Antioch.

According to police reports, Berg was stopped after the officer saw him squealing the tires at the intersection of Grand and Lindenhurst Avenues and hitting the curb.

As Berg was pulling into a parking lot, his trunk opened, revealing the new tires. Apparently when Berg was reaching for insurance information, he tripped the trunk release.

The officer became suspicious of the tires knowing Berg had a previous record. He asked Berg where he got the tires and was told Berg had bought them at work.

Police contacted Antioch Tire where the manager couldn't find a record of Berg buying the tires valued at $300. The officer then called Berg and asked him to come to the station.

Berg, after waiving his Miranda rights, admitted to taking the tires. He was arrested for theft and was released on a $100 bond.

COURAGE plans active December

ALEC JUNG

Staff Reporter

Community Outreach Uniting Residents Against Gang Environment (COURAGE) has many activities lined up for December.

Most importantly, students of the group will go door-to-door in Lindenhurst on Dec. 1 and Dec. 8 from 6 to 8 p.m. for canned and dried foods for the Lake County Food Pantry.

The group also is planning on a combination ski trip and seminar at Devil's Lake in Wisconsin. Students from grades 8 to 12 are eligible to go. A $50 deposit must be sent by Dec. 1.

Lindenhurst Kiwanis Club also is providing chaperones for the trip. The seminar will focus on leadership, teamwork and empathy.

COURAGE is a community-based effort of parents, youth, community leaders and police officials in Antioch, Grayslake, Lake Villa and Lindenhurst.

The group is designed to combat gangs and negative behaviors such as alcohol and drug use. COURAGE works to provide positive and healthy alternatives to gangs and provide information about gangs to members and the communities.

COURAGE members invite community members to join them in caroling in Lindenhurst and Lake Villa.

The group will meet at White Hen Pantry on Dec. 15. A short reception will follow with hot chocolate at the Lindenhurst Village Hall.

Finally, a Christmas Party will be held on Dec. 21 at the Lindenhurst Village Hall. For more information, call Linda Bergin at 356-5768.

Board OK's condominium extension

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

An extension on a variance was approved at last Monday's Antioch Village Board meeting to allow a developer to build 11 condominiums on Main Street. The variance was necessary because zoning ordinances require that lots must be fronted on a main roadway.

The variance would allow a private roadway easement to allow access to the landlocked property. Illinois Department of Transportation is currently reviewing the plans.

The original variance was "approved in principle" last June. However, there have been delays in the engineering site plan.

Furthermore, neighbors living near the proposed site voiced concerns at the meeting about the condition of the property. "It is unsightly and not an asset to our village," said neighbor

Forrest Stahmer.

The extension would allow more time to prepare the necessary paperwork. The extension will expire Feb. 20.

Because the variation was approved in principle, only, the developer will still need to go back to the planning and zoning board for approval.

Hometown Goodies marks sixth anniversary

This month marks the sixth year that I have written "Hometown Goodies." How quickly time passes when having fun. I would like to thank all of the area schools, organizations and individuals who have contacted me over the past six years with a friendly tidbit or two. It has been my experience that people enjoy keeping abreast of the positives in our schools, town happenings, special kids' stories, my world-famous "Carp Whale" tales, animal/pet stories, highlights of special family events of their friends and neighbors, such as birthdays, wedding celebrations, anniversaries, arrival of new babies, etc., get well wishes and comical bloopers.

Once again, I would like to thank Lakeland Publishers for setting aside space for this weekly Antioch area fun column, and I also thank everyone who has utilized this column as a way to inform and keep in touch with our fine Antioch area people. Lakeland and God willing, I will try to continue onward and upward. However, I truly do lead a somewhat boring life and definitely rely on your special phone calls to keep my fingers busy typing away. Keeping reading and keep calling in those tidbits, and when you do, remember to "Ask for the Lizard."

X-mas festivities

Santa's Enchanted Castle in Antioch will be open until Dec. 23. The hours are Monday through Friday from 5:30 to 8 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. I visited Santa's Castle last year, and it is magnificent.

Also, horse drawn carriage rides are available in downtown Antioch until Dec. 17. The times and days are Friday evening at 6 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m. I have not seen the carriage, but have been told by many people it is truly beautiful and makes for a wonderful, memorable evening in our special town.

I can't

Daddy Dan Tybor recently took eight-year-old Dan Jr. to the eye doctor. The eye doctor dimmed the lights and put the spotlight on the wall chart. He pointed to the bottom and smallest line of letters and asked, "Can you read this?"

"No," came the reply. As the eye doctor moved up the chart, and the letters gradually began to get larger, the question was repeated time and time again—"Can you read this?"

Each time the reply remained "no." Daddy Dan felt terrible that his son's eyesight was so bad and that he and the Mrs. didn't catch it sooner. The letters in the top line were enormous. Even daddy could read them without his glasses.

The doctor pointed to the top line and once again the question was posed, and once again the same reply—"no." Dan Sr. felt awful—he felt like turning in his good parent badge. How could little Danny's terrible eyesight have gone unnoticed by him and the wife?

The eye doctor pointed to the largest letters and said, "Try harder, Danny, see if you can read this." When Danny tried to pronounce O-C-D-T-B-K-E as a word, the eye doctor and daddy breathed a wonderful sigh of relief. His eyes weren't so bad after all. Dan discovered he was still a good father and the eye doctor learned to be more specific in giving children his examination directives in the future. Whew!

Champ

Five-year-old Danny Kurowski recently entered the Pinball Expo held at the Ramada Inn Hotel in Rosemont and he won first place in his division. He earned 246 million points on the Maverick Pinball Game, and in order to reach the machine's controls, little Danny had to stand on a chair. His parents, Michelle and Rich and little brother Kevin are very proud of him. Congratulations, Danny.

Theatre time

Once again, the PM&L Theatre in downtown Antioch will be presenting "A Christmas Carol," by Charles Dickens. This play will be directed by Peter Pintozzi, and the show dates are Dec. 2, 3, 4, 9, 10 and 11. The Friday and Saturday evening performances are at 8 p.m., and the Sunday matinees are at 2:30 p.m. Seating at the theatre is limited, and you can make reservations by calling 395-3055. The price for this special Christmas play is only $5 per seat.

Auditions

It is time to audition for the next production of the PM&L Theatre—"Rumors." Auditions will be held on Dec. 12 and 13 at 7:30 p.m. at the theatre on Main St. The cast will include parts for five men and five women, ranging in age from late 20s to early 50s. For more information contact director Frank DiMarco or producer Dick Dyer.

Hello

Loud and clear, I am not a journalist. However, I have to admit that writing this weekly column has presented me with the wonderful opportunity to meet and chit-chat with many nice and gracious people over the past six years. I am always amazed when someone goes out of their way to call and tell me how much they enjoy reading all or part of "Hometown Goodies."

Vi Johantgen is one of these nice people who called to tell me she enjoyed some laughter over my telephone in the freezer bloopers. I am sure many of you remember Vi as the former owner of Vi's Yellow Bird (now Toppers) in Antioch.

Vi was in the hospital for a lengthy time the end of last year and beginning of this year. However, she is now up and about and doing quite well. Thanks for calling, Vi. I am glad you enjoy reading "Hometown Goodies." I appreciate your kind phone call, and please stay in good health.

Wow

What a fantastic event. I had the wonderful opportunity of visiting St. Peter's Footlights production this year, and I do not know where I should start my congratulations and praises. The entire evening of entertainment, music, food, dancing and visiting with friends and neighbors was at its finest.

As usual, the "Grease" band and singers were out of this world and the lip sync entertainers were hilarious. All the halls, classrooms, gymnasium and auditorium were decorated to perfection.

The ad book was extensive as usual, and all the workers, performers and visitors should be commended on a job well done.

If you didn't go this year, try not to miss it next year. I guarantee you a totally fun evening.

Footlights guests

What is a fund-raiser without guests? I would like to say hello to the following people whom I recognized in the huge crowd of people at Footlights. I did this by memory, and I apologize if I left anyone out.

Hello Michelle Bailey, Lori Bednar, Don Bergl, Donna Bergl, JoAnn Bergl, John and Linda Boerman, Marilyn Bowen, Marie and Raymond Brausam, Dr. Albert Bucar, Danny and Pam Clarke, Phil Delany, Ed Dembinski, Judy Fechtner, Alice Fleming, Lori Foresta, Rich Hansen, Shahnaz Hansen, Harry Lengvenis, Sue Lengvenis, Lois McDonna, Jackie and John Miller, Debi and Wally Mozal, John Ruffin, Pat and Tony Santemmo, Jim and Karen Schmehl, Cathy and Tom Shaunessy, Claudette Skvarce and Wayne Sobczak.

Now each and every one of you owes me a column tidbit.

ACHS

The Antioch Community High School newspaper, the Tom Tom, came away with top honors from the Kettle Moraine Press Assn.'s fall conference.

The ACHS Madrigal Ensemble is an outstanding vocal ensemble of 16-24 auditioned members. Highlights of each year include solo and ensemble contests, where the ensemble have managed to maintain a record of superior scores, over 20 performances for schools and community organizations, three traditional concerts and the annual Madrigal Dinner.

The Madrigal Dinner also features the A cappella Choir and Advanced Treble Choir, along with select members of Freshman Gil's Glee, Concert Choir and Symphonic Band. In addition to the Madrigal Ensemble, there are duets and pageantry, magic and tumbling, stories and song, fine food and a conclusion of over 125 carolers. With four years of sold-out performances, this renaissance feast may be the hottest ticket in town. This year's dates are Dec. 10 and 11. You may contact the high school for further information.

Happy Birthday

"Oh, you better watch out, you better not cry, you better not pout, I'm telling you why." That's right, folks, this is the month that "Santa Claus is Coming to Town." However, there is one gentleman in our area who calls the big gift bearer "Tocca Toc!"

Lake County Youth Orchestras enjoy successful debut

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

Because of the support from classical music fans, the Lake County Youth Orchestras will be drawing the bow across the strings for some time to come. Their debut performance in November went remarkably well.

"It was packed. We had a wonderful turnout," said Carol Leybourn, founder and chairwoman of the board.

The place that was packed was the United Protestant Church in downtown Grayslake.

The church has been the site for rehearsals for the group since its inception this summer. Leybourn says the church's generosity has been key in the formation of the group.

"If we did not have the church giving us space, we would not be here," Leybourn said.

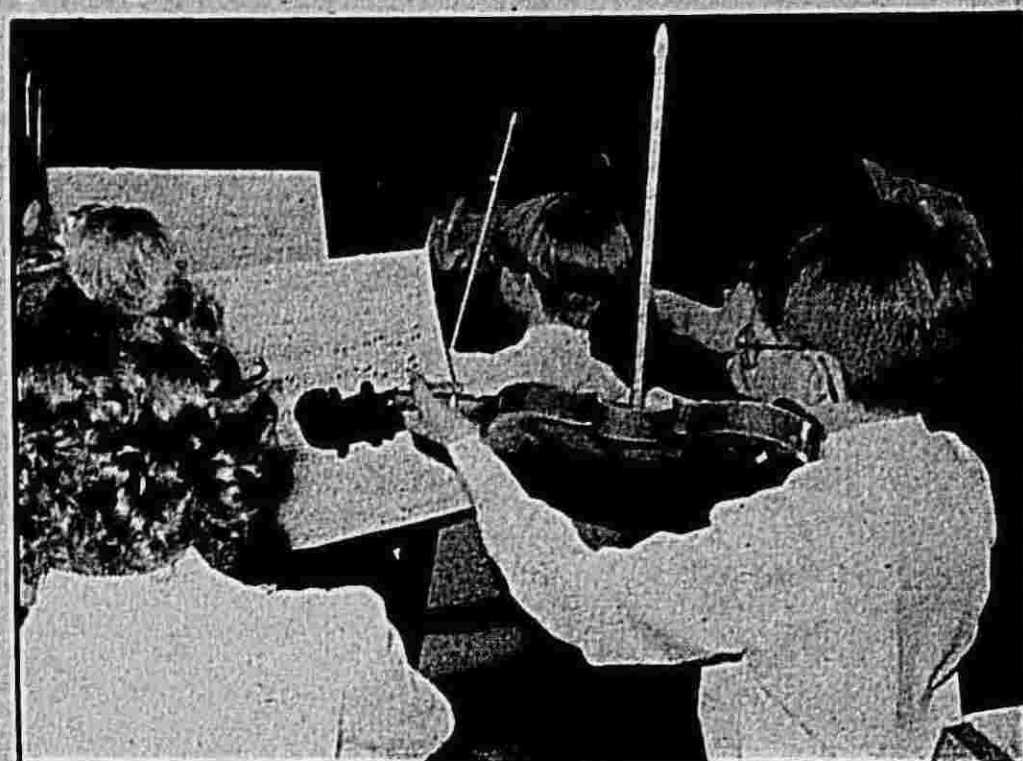

Attendance for the performance exceeded 200 people, according to the Leybourn's estimates. At $5 per ticket for anyone 12 years of age and older, the group also raised over $1,000. The start time for the 2:30 p.m.

concert had to be delayed momentarily because people were still pouring in with groups of children at that juncture.

The LCYO will remain busy during the holiday season with additional performances. One of the concerts will be for the Dec. 11 United Protestant Church service, to thank the church members for their generosity and support of the fledgling group. Another performance will be at the show court at Gurnee Mills Mall, 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 15.

Leybourn, who is also a classical pianist, said the group will continue in force, and is already making plans for an event during the winter months, which will be a chamber music workshop running from Jan. 8 through Feb. 26, 1995. The workshop will be highlighted by a performance at the church March 12 and another in a music festival at Northwestern University March 18. Chamber music features only one musician per part, without the aid of a director.

"It is excellent practice. It will be a valuable experience for the orchestra when we start our second session," Leybourn said.

ond session," Leybourn said.

The second season of the orchestra runs from March 5 through May 21. The money from the performance and several thousand dollars raised by a benefit concert in October will greatly help funding for the group.

For anyone interested in joining the LCYO, Leybourn can be reached at 223-3206.

Three Fox Waterway agency director positions up for election

Nominating petitions for three four-year director positions on the Chain O'Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency Board are available from the State Board of Elections, State of Illinois, 1020 S. Spring St., P.O. Box 4187, Springfield, IL 62708. Two director will be elected in McHenry County and one will be elected in Lake County.

Petitions will be accepted by the State Board of Elections in Springfield at the above address between Jan. 16 and 23, 1995.

Potential candidates must be a resident of a member county and reside within the territory of the agency. A minimum of 200 qualified signatures, who are voters of such county and also reside within the territory of the agency, are required. Information on the boundary of the territory of the agency is available at the Fox Waterway Agency office, 64 E. Grand Ave. in Fox Lake.

Further questions should be directed to State Board of Elections at (217)782-1518 or (217)782-4141.

Teachers contribute to new math text

Antioch Dist. 34 intermediate teachers Lynn Harrison and Sub Stevens have completed piloting a new math activity student lab book entitled "Maneuvers With Circles," published by the Univ. of Illinois at Chicago. According to UIC, by piloting testing and providing informed feedback on the book's effectiveness, Harrison and Stevens made "significant contributions" to the book's success.

The book, which is part of a series, stresses high interest among varied ability levels of students in fifth through eighth grades. Students experiment, measure and draw directly in the student lab book and, according to Harrison, "These hands-on activities help students gain a real understanding of mathematical concepts." Fellow teacher Stevens added, "We also liked that many of the math activities in the student lab book encouraged effective small-group interaction, an important skill in itself."

The book follows recommendations from the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, which encourages mathematical reasoning, problem solving and serious exploration of geometry and measurement.

R-B, Spring Grove leader to resign

TINA L. SWIECH

Staff Reporter

The dual-duty superintendent for both the Richmond High School District and the Spring Grove District announced he would not be renewing his three-year contract.

Despite working both jobs—Richmond-Burton Community High School for a total of 16-years and Spring Grove Elementary School for seven years—Dr. Ron Erdmann emphasized he isn't leaving because he's burnt out.

"I believe people who are burnt out, never got ignited (in the first place)," said the longtime superintendent.

Erdmann said his contract is good up until 1997, but there's a good chance he won't fulfill that complete stay. There are other options out there he may explore, said Erdmann.

Whether or not the two districts will decide to keep the double position, is not yet known. "I don't have any idea," said

Erdmann. As far as the school boards go, "They haven't even discussed that yet."

Spring Grove school board president Don Koffler confirmed there has been no "official" discussion of whether or not to keep one superintendent for both districts. Koffler did however say this is one area that will have to be reviewed when the time comes.

Erdmann serving as Spring Grove's superintendent has been very feasible, said Koffler. "You don't get a superintendent (anywhere) for $30,000 a year," said Koffler.

Erdmann began his superintendency for both District 157 and District 11 about eight years ago when Spring Grove only had an interim superintendent.

Richmond-Burton High School, where Erdmann had been working, has always had good relations with Spring Grove. Erdmann said he suggested to the board of Spring Grove that it may be more cost efficient to have him become superintendent of both districts provided there would be a full-time principal at Spring Grove.

When the time came to formally announce his plans for future resignation to both boards, Erdmann said they were not surprised. That's because he let them know two years ago that he was seriously thinking about leaving, after his son graduates from the high school.

Now that his son is ready to graduate this year, the reality of going on to new things has absorbed Erdmann even more. "I'm 47 years old; I've been here 16 years," said Erdmann. "I've got some more mountains I want to climb."

UHAUA holds sewer strategy meeting

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

United Homeowners Association of Unincorporated Antioch Township (UHAUA) held a board meeting Wednesday to prepare a strategy to contact Antioch Township residents about a sewer feasibility study. The group is planning to contact residents so letters of intent may be sent to Lake County Public Works asking for a study.

The study, which would not commit residents, would provide information about potential costs, problem areas, and even the feasibility of sewers in the township.

study had ever been done and without a study, no cost estimates can be made.

At their last meeting, members of UHAUA decided the best way to address some concerns residents may have is to obtain a letter from the Lake County Public Works explaining the feasibility study, and what, if any, obligations residents may face. Representatives then plan to take this letter to their membership and, if approved, send a letter of intent to Galantha.

On Wednesday, board members and volunteers met at Felter's Subdivision Clubhouse armed with maps in an attempt to pin-point areas which may not be represented by a homeowners group or association. Also, strategies have been developed to meet with Township business owners regarding the study.

Metra

Chicago's Union Station. Future stops may include Grayslake, Rosemont, Franklin Park, and Schiller Park.

The overall trip is expected to take 90 minutes. From Libertyville, 70 minutes. The Wisconsin Central segment is approximately 41 miles in length from the Antioch coach yard site on the Wisconsin border to the junction where the trains will switch from the Wisconsin Central line to the Metra Milwaukee District West tracks. The total length of the run will be 53 miles. At River Grove commuters will be able to transfer to other Metra lines.

"There won't be an awful lot of work we can do," said Knapton about the December start date of the project. "It all depends on the weather."

corner of Route 83 and North Avenue. All gifts must be in the office by Dec. 17. A cash donation will be accepted in lieu of the gift.

"The sharing spirit is showing this year," said Patti Zurla, a Realtor. "Hopefully, all of the names will be taken soon."

The Wish Tree is an opportunity for all residents to experience the true meaning of the Christmas Holiday. The entire family can join in to make a less fortunate person's Christmas a little more merry.

"It helps if the gifts are wrapped," said Zurla. "But, if that can't be done, it will be taken care of."

Winter stories held at Museum

SPENCER SCHEIN

Staff Reporter

As temperatures finally begin to fall, 'tis the season for gathering around a warm fire, drinking hot chocolate and listening to wondrous stories of wintertime.

Stories of talking snowmen, adventurous trips in the woods and how the holidays are spent in other parts of the world are just some of the topics the staff at the Lake County Museum will present in three separate programs this year.

The program actually started when one of the staff members thought it would be interesting to invite the public into the museum and hear their stories, she said.

The Dec. 9 session from 2 to 4 p.m. is nearly filled, and reservations are being taken for the Dec. 16 date one week later.

The program is open to all ages, with a $4 admission, $3 for Lake County residents. The museum staff will also help participating children work on a simple craft project based on the story of the gingerbread man.

The Lake County Museum is located in the Lakewood Forest Preserve on Route 176 near Wauconda. For reservations, call 526-7878.

Shop Antioch Merchants to help PADS

Local Antioch merchants are banding together by making supply contributions to PADS (Public Action to Deliver Shelter). PADS helps meet the needs of the homeless in our community.

Larry, of Antioch's Baskin-Robbins, has spearheaded the rally for donations and contributions. Sometimes we tend to get a bit caught up in our busy schedules and don't always take the time to think of others who are less fortunate. The approaching holiday season is the perfect time to think of others and remember that our good fortune isn't always shared.

There is still time to make contributions for PADS. The Antioch Baskin-Robbins is serving as the drop-off point for all contributions and donations. To help encourage people to donate, Baskin-Robbins of Antioch is offering a 10-percent savings off regular menu prices when dropping off donations through the month of December.

With the approach of winter, there's an urgent need for warm outerwear (all clothing needs to be new). Many children pass through our PADS shelter, creating a need for children's supplies as well as adults. It's important to remember that some children are homeless, too. Too often we think of the homeless just as adults. But many families have young children that could benefit from your contribution.

Here is a list of the items that PADS is in need of:

Supplies—(travel-size toiletries) toothbrushes, toothpaste, spray deodorant, shaving cream, body/food powder.

Clothing—socks (one-size fits all), warm gloves (L, XL, XXL), warm stocking hats, underwear (M, L, XL), scarves.

Sack lunch food items, such as—individual packets of crackers and cookies, juice boxes, candy/nuts, decaf coffee, hot chocolate mixes, sugar (individual or large) Miscellaneous supplies—laundry soap, bleach and softener; infant/child non-aspirin pain reliever.

For more information on how you can help PADS, call them at 362-3381.

The holidays represent a time of giving and good will toward man. Take the time to make a contribution that benefits those in our community who are less fortunate.

LETTER TO THE Editor

Excellent school

Editor:

Once again the citizen's group called BEST spoke out against an educational referendum for Antioch Community High School. They did this "in the name of democracy and American ideals."

In the past, we, the teachers of ACHS, have chosen not to respond to their lies and half truths in the hopes that they would be exposed. However, we are tired of the alleged 100 BEST members claiming to speak for the majority of the Antioch citizens. The recent flier sent out by BEST asks one legitimate question: What have we gotten for our money? We feel a legitimate question deserves a legitimate answer, and here it is.

The teaching faculty of ACHS is extremely professional. Currently, six ACHS teachers are recognized in "Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1994." Four teachers also have been nominated for Golden Apple awards for their excellence in the classroom.

Physical education, health and home ec teachers have each been recognized by their professional organizations for instituting innovative academic programs at ACHS. Reading and English teachers have spoken to their state and national professional organizations detailing new, state of the art programs they instituted at ACHS. Seventy-six ACHS teachers have Master's Degrees or higher and 72 teachers have taught at ACHS for 10 years or more. Each faculty member tutors, grades papers outside of class, prepares himself for class, and takes additional work home with him at night in addition to teaching five classes a day. Most of them put in the equivalent of a 10-hour work day. The ACHS staff cares about students and the well being of the communities in the ACHS district.

The administrators at ACHS also are dedicated to guiding students. Assistant Principal Clarence Williams is a sought-after speaker in the tri-state area to explain aspects of dealing with gang problems in schools. Department Chairwoman Sharon Peterson has brought science students from the feeder schools into her classroom with a program called "Science Alliance." This program exposes young minds to the world of laboratory sciences and kindles a love of learning.

The students at ACHS also excel. The student clubs of ALPHA and Athletes Committed to Excellence are run by students who have chosen a drug free lifestyle. These students make themselves available to their peers and feeder schools as responsible role models. The club members collect and deliver clothes and toys to shelters for the elderly and abused. ACHS supports many other clubs, too numerous to list. Each is sponsored by teachers. Except for the clubs that receive state grants, none of these sponsors are paid. The teachers who act as sponsors do so out of a commitment to the young people and the community at no charge to the taxpayers.

Academically, ACHS students successfully compete with other students in our area. ACHS students score above the national average on the ACT, become National Merit Scholar Nominees, and win awards at the state and national level in vocational contests. ACHS has 116 students in National Honor Society who perform countless hours of community service and tutoring. The Advanced Speech class recently answered phones to help Channel 11 WTTW raise money for its programming. The Tom Tom, ACHS's newspaper, and the Sequoia, ACHS's yearbook, have each also won national recognition for excellence. The Academic Team successfully competed on the sectional level. After graduation, students go on to college, technical schools, the military and the work force. In short, they become responsible citizens of the Antioch and world communities.

Antioch Community High School is on a list compiled by SchoolMatch that targets desirable school districts for professionals whose jobs have forced them to relocate into new areas around the nation. This company picks out the top 9 percent of the schools in the country. ACHS is on SchoolMatch's list along with such other schools as Lake Forest, Libertyville and Stevenson.

These examples are only a small selection of the valuable things happening at ACHS. If members of the community wish to know specifically what ACHS is like, we would like to invite them into the school to take a look for themselves. We have nothing to hide and a great deal to show off. In any case, we ask BEST to stop using ACHS, along with its students and faculty, as scapegoats for voting "no" on referenda. If members of BEST must vote "no", we ask that they do so without falsely attacking ACHS.

This community has an excellent school with outstanding students, faculty, administrators and programs. Maybe it's time for BEST to admit that they simply don't "want to spend any more money" and stop manufacturing reasons to alienate community members from ACHS.

Student appointed to prestigious group

Deanna Olenick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Olenick of Antioch has been appointed to the Lake Forest College's (LFC) prestigious Senior 25 leadership group. Olenick is a graduate of Antioch Community High School.

LFC students who maintain strong academic records and have shown leadership through their participation in extracurricular activities are selected for Senior 25 by the dean of the college and the provost and the dean of the faculty.

Olenick is a member of Ambassadors, a group that gives tours and hosts perspective students; secretary of Kappa Delta Pi, an education honorary society; representative on the Education Advisory Council and Academic Honesty Judicial Board; and she was also an orientation leader, which helps freshmen during their first week of school. Olenick is majoring in psychology and elementary education.

Nominated by their peers, these outstanding students are exemplary role models on campus. They build student morale, encourage communication among various campus organizations and serve as liaisons to the trustees, alumni, faculty and the administration.

Senior 25 members also are an advisory group to the president in recommending speakers for Commencement. Lake Forest College, rated one of the best national liberal arts colleges by "U.S. News & World Report," is located 30 miles north of downtown Chicago and has a diverse student body representing 45 states and 30 foreign countries.

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Following a tough Thanksgiving Tournament at Dundee-Crown, the Lady Sequoits bounced back to defeat Zion-Benton 33-28 in the conference opener.

"After losing three, we came out with a lot of confidence and enthusiasm," said Coach Dave Woods. "We were happy to get off on the right step in the conference."

Erin O'Connell led Antioch point-makers with 12 points. "Erin had another outstanding game," Woods said.

Mary Ipsen added six points, followed by Rachel Hauser with five points and Carrie Gofron with four points.

Woods said seniors Hauser and Lindsay Hladnik have shown solid leadership in the early going. Juniors O'Connell, Ipsen and Dana Pierson are beginning to step with more responsibility, and sophomores Gofron and Jeanna Miller are progressing at a nice pace, he said.

"We started to show some consistency, but we have a long way to go," Woods noted.

The Sequoits improved their record to 2-4. Antioch lost three straight during the Dundee-Crown tourney, but the junior-dominated team squared off more experienced opponents.

"We saw three really tough teams. You learn from going up against tough opponents," Woods said. "Our philosophy is to play a little better each game."

The Sequoits hope to carry that philosophy with them when they square off against Lake Forest Saturday in Lake Forest. They then travel to Libertyville to face the state-ranked Wildcats Dec. 6.

Sequoit boys win thriller enroute to 3-0 start

Trailing by 17 points to start the fourth quarter, the Antioch boys hoopsters regrouped and pulled out a 65-63 thriller over Woodstock to capture the Thanksgiving Tournament title there.

With two seconds left to play, Adam Becker sunk the winning bucket from three-point range to give the Sequoits their third victory in as many games.

"Being down 17 points, things didn't look good at the start of the fourth quarter," said Coach Jeff Dresser.

Antioch then went on an 11-0 scoring drive to cut lead to 5 with 2:41 to play. Becker scored eight of Antioch's last 10 points in the final 10-2 drive.

"We were kind of sleep walking before that," Dresser said. "We then went to a full-court press and picked up our defensive intensity, and things snowballed."

Antioch handily defeated Marian Central 82-69 and drove past Jefferson to a 77-62 victory before squaring off against Woodstock for the title.

Becker may have been the hero in the last game, but Eric Eckenstahler showed that he's playing in mid-season form by garnering 27, 22 and 30 points in each of the three games respectively.

Both Becker and Eckenstahler were named all-tournament players. Eckenstahler also broke a tournament scoring record with 79 points in three games.

Dresser also stressed a strong bench performance which contributed to the 3-0 start.

Eric Campbell, a junior, took charge leading the offensive plays.

"He did a great job for us, especially with these being his first three varsity games," Dresser said of Campbell. "They felt comfortable with him calling the plays."

Kevin Geraghty, another junior guard, played a solid defense and averaged 10 points a game. Dan Riepe, a junior center, also stepped in with a solid performance when Eckenstahler needed a rest.

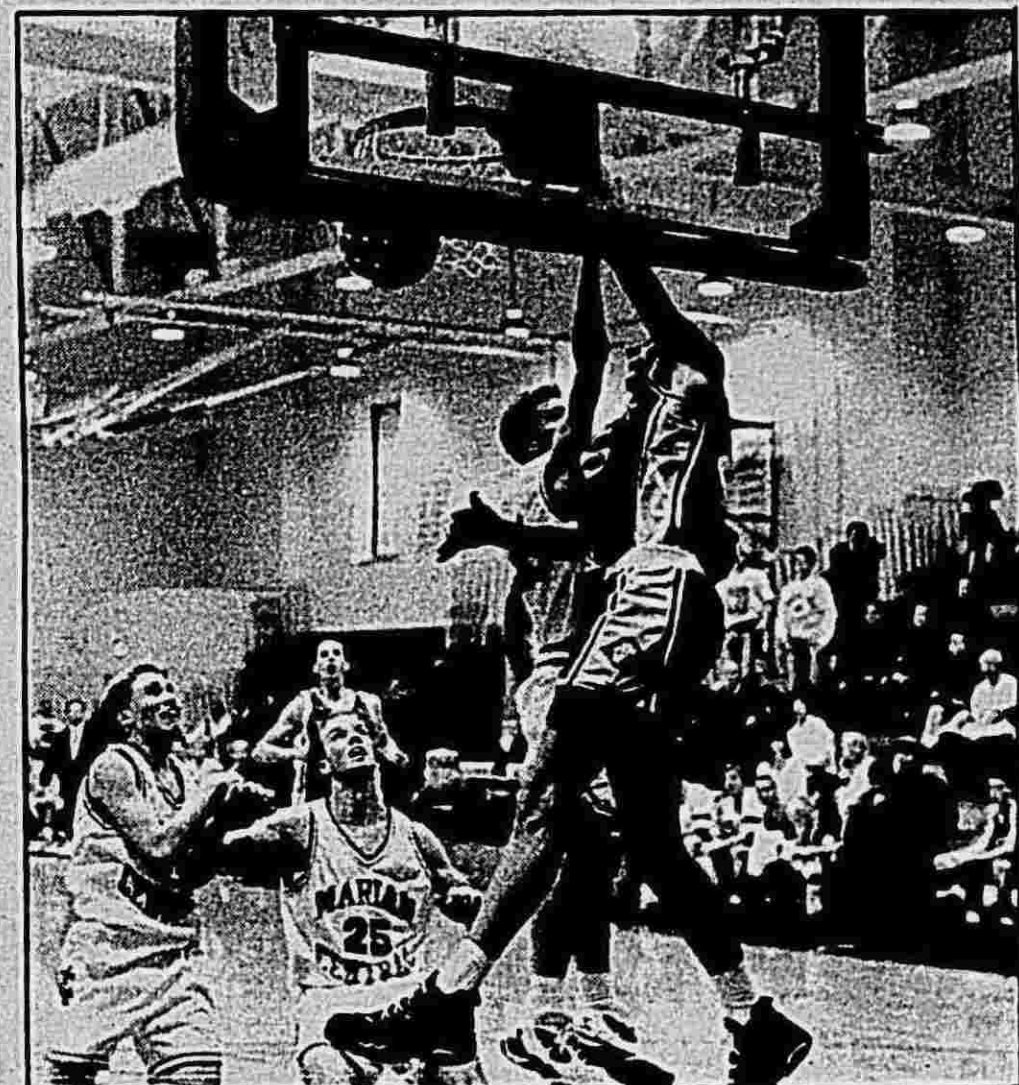

Dresser also credited Kevin Eckenstahler, Eric's junior brother, with great second-half hustle during the tournament.

"We had people do different things for us in different games," Dresser said. "It helps if you've got people you can depend on off the bench. It was a fun tournament."

The Sequoits open North Suburban Conference action at home against Zion-Benton Friday and at Lake Forest Saturday. The Zion match will be the only Antioch home game until after the new year. With many players returning, speedy Zion has been picked as one of the top teams in the NSC.

"We've always played them tough," Dresser said. "We just have to run our own tempo against them."

Grant wrestles to first victory

Bulldog grapplers captured their first dual meet of the season before entering holiday at Barrington featuring 26 teams.

Barrington handed Grant a 54-14 victory by forfeiting many of the matches.

Grant, nonetheless, walked away with the dual victory and 1-0 start.

Wilmot Mountain prepares itself for 55th ski season

The onset of winterlike weather has the staff at Wilmot Mountain making last-minute preparations for the onset of the 1994-95 ski season.

"We're psyched up, that's for sure," Mike Reese, president of the ski area. "The temperature here dropped to the low 20s last night and we were tempted to start making snow. But we wanted to let the ground freeze first to insure a good-quality base."

The ski resort's mountain crew has checked and tweaked its arsenal of more than 100 snow guns and miles of hoses that pump water to be turned into light powdery snow. "Next time we get a really cold night, we'll be out there making snow," Reese said.

Meanwhile, the resort's army of more than 200 seasonal employees are on standby, ready to report as soon as the first run opens and the first skiers pull into the parking lot. The eight chairlifts have been tested to insure they are ready to safely carry to the top of the mountain the thousands of skiers who show up each week throughout the winter season.

Inside the main lodge, the ski shop is bulging with this season's hot new ski wear and gear. A milder-than-normal autumn has meant fewer pre-season buyers have been showing up.

"What we all need right now," Jam said, "is a good old-fashioned snowstorm to get the ski season off on the right foot."

By mid-December, all of Wilmot's 25 ski runs should be open, with or without the benefit of natural snowfall. "We can make all the snow we need to provide outstanding skiing," Reese said. "But a lot of people don't realize that, so we won't see big crowds until we get the first snowstorm of the winter."

Wilmot Mountain Ski Area is located at the Illinois-Wisconsin state line, between Antioch and Richmond, off Hwy. 173. For an up-to-the minute snow report, skiers can call the resort's 24-hour hotline at (312) 736-0787.

Kerns gains crown, begins with 7 wins

In baseball, they say pitchers are ahead of the hitters during early season action.

In wrestling, those who are in tip-top condition can have a big edge over those who have only practiced. Just ask Grayslake's Joe Kerns.

The senior 145 pounder won his weight class at the Barrington Invitational and has a 7-0 record.

"Joe just destroyed his weight class. He had a productive two weeks of preparation before the season. He is one of our senior leaders and he has great condition," Coach Erick Skoog said.

Kerns won the title by pin at 4:33 of the third period over Justin Norris of Johnsbury. He advanced with two pins and two technical falls. "No one came close to scoring on him," Skoog said.

Among Kerns' victims was Todd Jackowitz of Cary-Grove. The opponent had finished third at the sectional meet last year, denying Kerns a trip. Kerns won 12-2 Saturday.

Teammate Ed Pak finished fourth at 160 pounds.

"Ed had the toughest weight class of the tournament. There were two state qualifiers there," Skoog said.

Pak lost to a St. Laurence's Tom Ciezki for third place, 5-2.

The Rams earned 70 points, good enough for 18th place at the 25-team meet.

The Rams' Dec. 2 meet with Round Lake was postponed due to the teachers strike at RL. The Rams battle Wauconda and St. Edward at Wauconda Dec. 9.

The Rams pulled out a narrow 33-32 win over Mundelein to start the dual season. A win at heavy-weight by Chris Walls was the difference. Grayslake beat Carmel but lost to Cary-Grove for a 2-1 start.

Wrestling fans looking to see some future stars may do so at the annual Rams freshmen invite Dec. 3. Action begins at 9 a.m. Area teams Antioch, Grant and Warren will be among the eight-team field.

Antioch easily handles Ram bowlers

ALEC JUNGE

Staff Reporter

A more experienced Antioch took advantage of bowling at home and handily defeated Grayslake 2464 to 2063 in girls action.

Grayslake Coach Glenn Watt said the girls didn't have the consistency to compete with their counterparts. The first game of the season also contributed to the margin of victory.

"We didn't have a score above 500," Watt said. "One of them (Antioch) was at 500 and two were close."

Hitting the high series for the Rams was Christy Dish with a 449 and a 172 high game. The second best effort came from Nicole Maretti at 431 and a high game of 158.

Kristy Sieger had a 424 series with a high game of 166. Carolyn Frechette hit a 395 with a 135 high game and Jenny Cole had a 364 with a high game of 125.

"It was a good effort. We will be in the thick of things. It will pick up for us," Watt said.

The team is young with three juniors and a sophomore on the five girl squad. Watt said it will take some time for the team to jell.

"There will be some learning experiences. After the tournament we will see how much work we will have to do," Watt said.

At Antioch Lanes, Grayslake was having a problem with consistency.

"We were not in the pocket enough. We have to be better on our spares. We need to avoid the high counts and the wide splits. We have to be more consistent. We need to string some strikes together and when they aren't working, the spares will carry you," Watt said.

Watts said the first game jitters may have played a role in the final outcome. He said the team appeared to be nervous.

He complemented Antioch for bowling excellent. "Antioch is a good team. They are always a tough one (team). At their own lanes they are pretty tough," Watt said.

Lindenhurst Blitz come from behind

The Lindenhurst Blitz squared off against the Illinois Sidekicks and finished with a 2-2 tie.

The Blitz put together their best effort since going indoor, but found themselves trailing at half-time 2-0. The second half found Lindenhurst with total team determination.

At the midway point, Erin Sparkman took a pass from Becca Bleyer and pushed it into the net to put the Blitz on the board. Lindenhurst kept up fierce pressure around the Sidekicks net, creating many quality scoring chances, but couldn't buy a goal.

With just a few minutes left in the contest, a high pass off the right wall crossed over to Allison Earl who rocketed the ball into the upper left corner to tie the game. Bleyer was given the assist.

Blitz standouts in the come-from-behind victory were Stacey Alberts, Sondra Lorang, Elly Elfering and Melissa Helbig (goal-keeper).

Rams gain confidence

The McHenry Warriors proved just what the doctor ordered for the confidence factor in Grayslake.

A 12-3 fourth quarter run allowed Grayslake's girls basketball team to down McHenry 40-33. The win gave the Rams a 1-2 record for the tourney, after suffering lopsided losses to Mundelein and Warren.

Amy Artelt led the Rams with 9 points. The 5-foot, 9-inch junior was the leading scorer for the second straight game. She had 10 points in a 68-21 loss to Warren.

"All the work paid off. We all wanted to win. We wanted to control the ball in the fourth quarter and cut down on turnovers," Artelt said.

"It was a good team effort. We needed a couple of easier opponents. We were supposed to open with Highland Park, but that game was canceled and we ended up with three tough opponents (Antioch, Mundelein and Warren). We weren't ready," Coach Paul Missavage said.

Missavage said there is still plenty to work on, especially in the area of decision making.

Presidential election vote goes to tie-breaker

By Sara Cashmore
and Sara Hilger

One of the highlights of every school year is the student council officer elections and this year the competition reached its peak with a tie for the office of president.

Many different views were expressed by the candidates. One presidential candidate, Katie Anderson, stated, "I ran to help the school and make it a better year." Jodie Schultz noted her reason for running was to make a difference and make this year better than ever. Amber Dams stated her reason was to make an impact and modernize Antioch Upper Grade School.

Anderson said that she will benefit AUGS by taking opinions into consideration. Schultz stated she would make this school a place where students wanted to come.

Dams said she is a qualified leader who will try to make this year one to remember. Choosing a vice-president was also a hard decision to make. Eighth grader Krista Hines ran because she wanted to help make some of the decisions. Hines said she would want to get a food vending machine for students.

Another eighth grader, Sara Cashmore, said that if she was elected she would make it a better year for everyone. Cashmore indicated that she would help organize more fundraisers to earn more money for activities.

When it came to treasurer, the race was close. Both candidates, Becky Hill and Cheryl Fret, ran for the office in order to make it the best year possible for the students. Hill stated, "I will hope to raise more money than in the past." Fret noted she hoped to meet students' needs.

Student voters elected Jessica Sladek as secretary, Becky Hill as treasurer, and Krista Hines as vice-president. The results in the race for president were not immediately known. First, it was declared a tie between Anderson and Schultz.

The students participated in a tie-breaking vote and Anderson won by a slim margin.

Eighth grade Washington trip moves to Spring Break

By Katie Laphane
and Kathy Scott

By popular demand, the seventeenth annual Washington D.C. trip date has been changed to Spring Break.

On March 29, 1995 through April 1, 1995, Ms. Sue Owens will be leading a group of eighth grade students through Washington D.C., Jamestown, and Williamsburg, Virginia. The trip will not be covered on fun and games, but on education.

The trip is planned by Lakeland

Tours of Charlottesville, Virginia. The students will travel during the day and have free time at night.

The total cost of the trip comes out to $734.00. This includes round-trip airfare on United Airlines, insurance, rooming, the bus, meals, chaperone escorts, security at the hotel, and evening activities.

The first payment of $115 is due by November 23, 1994. The second payment of $175 is due by January 6, and the final payment will be due by February 15.

Owens stated, "I won't know if I like it better during Spring Break, but I think the weather will be better."

Lines of having a fundraiser to get money for the trip have come up, but since there are so many other fundraisers, there just is not enough time. "There is too much competition out there," Owens said.

Eighth grader Meghan Dyer stated, "I've been waiting for this trip for three years."

Snowflake encourages drug prevention for students

By Stefanie Forrester
and Tiffany Kapella

Snowflake is more than drug prevention, it is making new friends and having fun. Snowflake this year was held on November 5, 1994.

Over one hundred students from Antioch Upper Grade School attended. Students from four other schools also came.

"Snowflake is a get together to prevent kids from taking drugs. It's kind of like D.A.R.E., but better," said Laura Harmon, a student at AUGS who went to Snowflake last year.

Some of the activities were: crafts, spider web warm fuzzies, trust walks, and connect four. Also, there were speakers and performers.

When students got there, they received their T-shirts and a bag full of "peaches."

Then the students ate breakfast. After that they got in their groups, did some activities, saw speakers and came back for lunch. Finally, students did more activities with their groups. Students could bring a pillow or anything else to make themselves comfortable.

"Snowflake is a rewarding, fun, beneficial experience that I hope all kids will try at least once, and I hope they'll try Snowflake in the high school," said Mrs. Linda Egan, the social worker at AUGS.

To be qualified for Snowflake, students had to turn in their money and permission slip by October 21. Snowflake is only open to seventh and eighth graders.

Antioch Upper Grade School students published the first edition of the Apache Arrow.

AUGS debuts newspaper

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Antioch Upper Grade School journalism students debuted the first edition of "The Apache Arrow," the school's new newspaper last week. Roughly 1,000 papers were distributed to students, parents, and to key area's in the District 34 area.

Fifty eighth-grade students are involved in the project, headed by teacher, Kathy Schoenfelder. "I was very impressed with their writing quality," said Schoenfelder of the first issue.

Schoenfelder, a former Antioch Community High School "Tom-Tom" staffer plans to continue the same newspaper and class format for successive classes. The first six or seven weeks of her journalism class focuses on newspaper style writing, interviewing skills, and journalism principles. Students wrote both news and feature articles. The remainder of the class is devoted to getting the newspaper out.

"It was really difficult," said Schoenfelder of the first deadline. "It was not as organized as I would have like it."

To get the paper out, students first submit a story list for approval. The stories then get assigned to students and they begin interviewing. "We all take pictures," said Tobi Ingoglia, a student reporter.

Students use peer editing before submitting their completed stories. Then Schoenfelder does the final proofreading. Students are also involved in the layout of the paper.

Deadline for the budding reporters is Tuesday. The finished product is then sent to the Burlington Standard Press to be printed, and the papers come back to the school on Thursday or Friday.

"I really want this to be a workshop atmosphere," said Schoenfelder. "I want them to also learn responsibility by meeting deadlines."

At this time, the journalism class at AUGS is an eighth-grade elective, although one seventh-grader, Wojtek Krupka, is contributing a regular cartoon. When the next semester starts, a new set of students will go through the program. Schoenfelder hopes the students' hands-on experience will help when they graduate and head to Antioch Community High School, which has an award-winning school newspaper.

Progress in ACHS contract talks

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Some progress has been made in the contract negotiations between Antioch Community High School Board and teacher's union. Teachers at the high school have been without a contract since last summer.

"I guess we settled some issues last week," said Larry Kamin, Education Association vice president. "We will be meeting again on Monday."

Rumors have been circulating the teachers are planning to strike. However, while anything is possible, a strike does not seem to be the direction ACHS staff is going.

"It is just a stupid rumor," Kamin acknowledged. Although, he admits teachers are beginning to feel anxious. Some teachers have taken to wearing buttons decrying the lack of contract.

During the summer, it seemed the negotiations between the Antioch Community High School Board of Education and the Antioch Community High School Education Association had been rather smooth. However, union officials announced the negotiations were broken off on Sept. 11. According to a press release from the union, the negotiation failure is a result of the insistence of the school board to continue without a mediator.

Pearl Harbor— remembering the heroes

Correspondent

It all began in September of 1954 just after leaving my old hometown of Nogales, Ariz., and after spending two weeks of "boot leave." My destination was back to the U.S. Navy base at San Diego, Calif., where I would join an OGU (Outgoing Unit) that would eventually take me to my ship of order, the U.S.S. Regulus (AF-57), home ported at Yokosuka, Japan.

I was extremely excited about going overseas, so the anticipated apprehension of being on an aircraft over the vast openness of the Pacific Ocean did not even negatively disturb my mind. The prospect of even visiting another foreign nation loomed positively on my mind since I would be able to experience first-hand how the people that inhabited the Pacific Rim lived and the stereotyping that had been drummed into us would be finally laid to rest. Our first leg would take us to Hickam Air Force Base in Honolulu, Oahu, Territory of Hawaii.

This piston-engine, four-propelled, triple-tailed, sleek aircraft with a then futuristic design was nearing the Hawaiian Islands. Music had been piped in from the intercepted radio waves from a long forgotten station in Honolulu. Just then the aircraft's PA system announced our forthcoming landing, temporarily disrupting the sonorous and mesmerizing sounds that were reminiscent of Queen Liliuokalani's personal Mana, or Spirit of Aloha.

Once the aircraft came around Oahu's Makapuu Point, you could clearly see the majestic cloud-tipped Koolau Mountain Range. These sharply defined and rain-eroded mountains were a vision of verdant beauty, especially as seen from aloft. Koko Head, a small and ancient dormant volcano, came into view, followed by the outlines of Maunaloa Bay. Just before touching down at Hickam, we on the starboard side managed to get a very short glimpse of Pearl Harbor; the East Loch, Middle Loch, and separated by the Waipio Peninsula, the West Loch. Ford Island, the old home of Battleship Row, also afforded us but a fleeting peek.

After landing and disembarking, we were immediately put on a different MATS flight ready for takeoff to the Far East, entertaining visions of a mysteriously exotic and esoteric world that I had only known from old postcards and primary school geography books.

Turning the clock forward to October of 1955, and after I had been in the Navy over a year, our ship, the U.S.S. Regulus (AF-57) steamed into Pearl Harbor and right into the East Loch. As our ship approached the vicinity of Ford Island, all hands not immediately engaged with the docking activities and other functions relative to such safety ensured preparations were ordered to line the port side. We were all in our dress whites as was appropriate for the tropics. To our ship's port lay the submerged U.S.S. Arizona (BB-39), with only the top of No. 3 gun turret barrette showing above the gently lapping azure waters of Pearl Harbor. There was only a rude wooden platform transversely mounted over it whose only function was to accommodate the honor guard in the daily ritual. See HEROES page B2

Co-workers mobilize to search for kids

GREG SORENSON

Correspondent

Nicholas Montalbano turned 11 on Nov. 23.

His mother, Carolyn, celebrated without him for the fourth straight year.

Nicholas and his brother, Michael Vito, were abducted by their non-custodial father, Curt Montalbano, on Jan. 25, 1991. Nicky and Vito are two of 350,000 children who are abducted each year by a parent or relative, according to figures from the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children (NCMEC).

The 350,000 go relatively unpublicized, as opposed to the estimated 500 to 600 annual cases of abduction by a stranger. Assistant Attorney General Liz Foran-Yore says that parental abduction is still not taken as seriously by the public as stranger abduction.

Nicholas Montalbano

"This is a form of child abuse," Foran-Yore said. "You're ripping kids from their homes, families, schools and their friends, and kids are living on the lam. The statistics are that most of these children suffer emotional abuse, and many are physically and sexually abused. Everybody says, 'Well, at least they're with one parent.' Well, we're now becoming a sophisticated enough society to look beyond that and say, is living in a car, on the run, a good life?

"The impact on these children-is that they're scarred emotionally for life. They can't form close relationships with other adults, and unable to commit to work or emotional relationships because they've been ripped from their roots," she added.

Carolyn Montalbano is a sales associate with Century 21-Epifanio and Associates in Antioch. She has mobilized her boss and the business into what Foran-Yore calls a "distribution center"—a point from which law enforcement can flood a community with information on missing kids.

"Someone has seen my boys today," said Montalbano. "Someone has laid eyes on my children. Our job is to get this flier in front of as many people as possible until it gets to the woman or man who has seen them."

County opens doors for Yorkhouse Road extension

KEVIN HANRAHAN

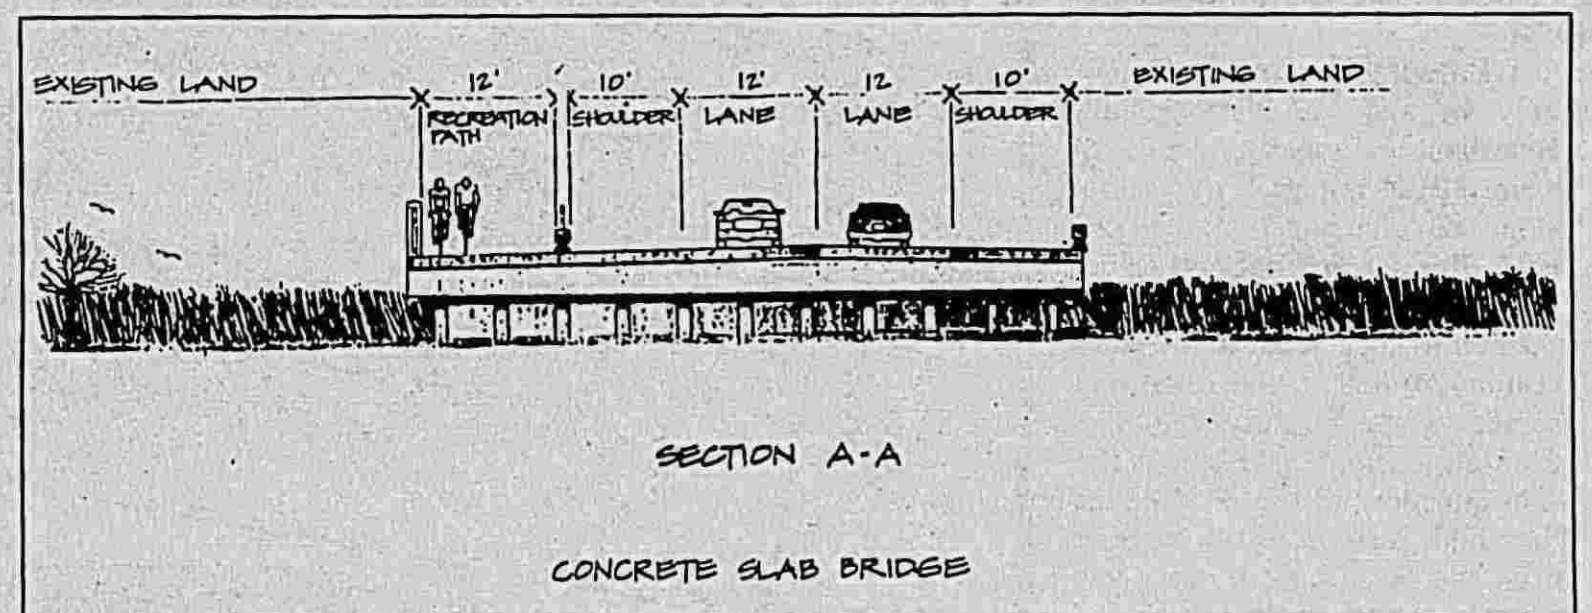

Staff Reporter

After all the confusion was cleared, it appears a rare joint session between three Lake County committees gave their approval to a resolution that would open the doors toward extending Yorkhouse Road west across the DesPlaines River to Route 41.

The plan has stirred controversy over a number of issues surrounding the extension. First, nearby residents have come out against the plan. Second, the plan would swallow more than half of the county's road funds for a year. And third, the road and bridge system would cut across the famed Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project.

The Lake County Department of Transportation had also unveiled its traffic study which showed two Yorkhouse Road extension proposals that would alleviate traffic congestion and allow for greater access to Waukegan from Route 41. Extending Yorkhouse Road would also prevent the need of converting Wadsworth Road into four lanes, county officials said.

An upper valley route would

curve northward and include a series of arch bridges, sparing much of the areas defined as wetlands. A separate bike path would run parallel to the extension. Transportation Director Martin Buehler said no standing water, ponds or forest would be affected by the northern extension.

"What that aerial shows is that the land was farmed, mined and was never pristine," said Buehler, who used an aerial photograph from the 1950s to show that the land in question is not all deemed wetland.

A southern route would link

Yorkhouse Road and run directly across the river, but would involve many wetlands and flood plains.

The more environmentally pleasing northern route was recommended by the department of transportation, but a land acquisition agreement from the 1970s may prevent or, at least, stall that extension. The county and forest preserve district must work out a complex web of land agreements before securing the right of ways for the northern route.

County Attorney Cliff Weaver pointed out that the county must obtain approval from the U.S. Department of Interior to acquire the necessary right of ways, and both the county and the forest preserve would have to swap land ownership. The county already owns the property for a southern extension, but the northern extension is preferred.

"In order to get the northern route, we must obtain the approval of the Secretary of the Interior," Weaver said. "The exchange (for the southern route) could happen tomorrow if the board so chose." See PLAN page B4

Abducted

Nicky and Vito. Epifanio and Associates has doubled that reward to $10,000. "I really hate to see money be the reason people pay attention, but if that's what it'll take, what price do you put on a child?" said Joe Epifanio.

Epifanio and Associates also runs a semi-annual "KidCare ID" program in conjunction with NCMEC. The KidCare ID kit is a small booklet in which parents can store updated high-quality photographs, emergency information such as medical needs or allergy information, and fingerprints. "These pictures and fingerprints are crucial. Kids could have been brainwashed into new identities," Foran-Yore said. "If I'm going to kick into action, I need good pictures...school photos, something facial."

Efforts by local businesses are essential in finding missing children. Government resources are slow and often overgrown, and standard branches of law enforcement have their hands full. Grassroots efforts are a fast, effective way of getting a message out.

"The more educated the public is and the more education children receive on how to prevent it, the less work we have to do," said Foran-Yore. "Missing children are found by the public. It's the person who calls the police and says, 'I recognize this little boy or girl.' The public has a great instinct for investigation. People know in their gut when something is fishy, if a kid is being kept in the house. The public is really our best detective."

Along with keeping updated facial photos of your children, Foran-Yore recommends keeping childhood photos of both parents at various ages. These are used in what is now the hottest technology in missing-persons searches: Computer-generated age progression. Above all, children as well as parents should be made aware of the dangers out there; not as scare tactics, but as safety measures.

"We need to make kids street-wise with age-appropriate education," said Foran-Yore. "Law enforcement doesn't have the resources to do that. We need to rely on private foundations, businesses and the schools to give kids the tools to say 'no', not only to drugs, but inappropriate adults, to strangers, and to situations which could cause them harm. Kids can be their best protection with information."

Speed is the key when searching for missing kids, Foran-Yore said. If a child disappears, communities immediately kick in to blitz an area with fliers and posters. In some cases, this tactic causes the abductor to panic and release the child. In the Montalbano case, Carolyn's hands were tied for two days because of a legal visitation agreement. Foran-Yore believes preventive measures such as supervised visitation and mediation should be taken at the early signs of a possible abduction.

"In parental abduction, courts often have information that an abduction might occur," said Foran-Yore. "We need to take that information seriously. If a parent is threatening to take the kids, or taking action like closing bank accounts or businesses...there are always indicators. And we must give kids the tools to contact the parent who's left behind. There are 800-hotlines for nearly every threatening situation."

"Many children are told the other parent is either dead or didn't want them," she added. "My hope is these children knew, even though they were 7 and 9, that they were abducted, and that seed of truth is always lingering there."

"What really hit me is we have a birthday here," said Epifanio. "They should be together. It's easy to get involved. Whether or not you have kids, your heart tells you what to do."

Heroes

of raising and lowering the colors. As our ship's bow crossed the Arizona's bow, the shrill sound of the bosun's whistle came over the PA system, followed by the order, "Right hand, salute!" We kept that position until our stern had passed the Arizona's stern. At that point, the PA system once more announced the following order: "Two!" followed by a brief pause and then "at ease!" We then proceeded in the general direction of Aiea.

After a few days in this territorial paradise I became aware of three very distinctive landmarks—the oldest hotel, the Moana, the Royal Hawaiian, which was affectionately called the "Pink Palace of the Pacific," and the Halekulani.

Fast forwarding to 33 years later, in 1988, my wife and I decided to visit the "Sandwich Islands," as they were so named by Captain James Cook in the 1700s. We decided to pay our visit and respect to the U.S.S. Arizona Memorial.

The visitor's center, which was dedicated on Oct. 10, 1980, was our way station to the gleaming white memorial, which had been completed in 1962. After a 20-minute Victory at Sea-type movie that graphically depicted that infamous day of Dec. 7, 1941, we were taken to the memorial on board a Navy-manned craft, courtesy of the U.S. Navy and the National Park Service.

The eerie silence, disturbed only by Pearl Harbor's gently lapping waves, at once made you aware of the pain and immediate death that was suffered by the 1,177 fatalities. Nine hundred and forty-five are presumed entombed, but even the Navy admits that this may not be an accurate count. The names of both Navy and Marine Corps personnel inscribed on the west wall of the memorial give mute testimony to the horrors of war.

I kept my sunglasses on, not only because of the brilliant Hawaiian sun but because my eyes were silently crying. But I was not alone experiencing this very real grief. This sorrow that permeated the sweet hibiscus-scented air seemed to affect most of the older visitors, particularly those who had served in the military. I looked toward the submerged bow of the ship and noticed the oil droplets that had surfaced; still seeping from the fuel bunkers every few seconds and making their way out the channel and toward the sea even after more than four decades. I walked the deck of the memorial softly, perhaps secretly hoping to alleviate the long wait for release of those souls below to their proper place, their personal Valhalla. The U.S.S. Arizona is still in commission. It stands as a symbol of America's spirit of vibrancy and resolution. Lest we forget. This 7th of December of 1994 will be the 53rd anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

As an addendum: Not far from the memorial is Puowaina, the hill of sacrifice. It is commonly known as the Punchbowl, the National Cemetery of the Pacific. It is a small hill of volcanic origin and ties in with Pearl Harbor as a place of solemnity. The 30-foot-high statue of Columbia, which overlooks the Court of Honor has the following inscription: "The Solemn Pride That Must Be Yours to Have Laid So Costly a Sacrifice Upon the Altar of Freedom." This was a message written by Abraham Lincoln to a mother whose five sons died in the Civil War.

Oahu means "the gathering place" by the Hawaiians. This means gathering our thoughts with those who were the sacrificial lambs of that time long ago on Dec. 7, 1941. PETERS is a Navy veteran who resides in Wildwood. He is a distribution line operator/welder for North Shore Gas Company.

Rte. 53 extension watched

GRAYSLAKE—Probably to the surprise of many residents, scheduling for the Rte. 53 extension project has been moved forward in the past several years. According to Grayslake Village Manager Mike Ellis, construction on the project should begin within four years. The Village of Grayslake has a keen interest in the project because it will link to Rte. 120 west of Wildwood. The project's interchanges with Peterson Rd. and Rte 45 may also have a significant impact on traffic in the village.

One major concern Ellis has is the long term plan for a proposed western route that will link the tollway to Rte. 120, then eventually head north through the Village of Richmond in McHenry County.

Teachers offer arbitration

ROUND LAKE—Striking teachers, teacher assistants and secretaries offer of binding arbitration was rejected by the Round Lake Unit school board. The union offered arbitration on the economic issues and agreed to bargain the non-economic issues and return to work. The school board said 'no' to the request because it didn't want to accept the strings attached such as giving the teachers back pay for step salary increases. There have been no new dates set for negotiation to take place.

Crash kills Wis. man

GURNEE—A Waukegan man faces multiple charges after an Oak Creek resident was killed during a collision Nov. 24 in Gurnee. It occurred at 2:15 p.m. at Route 21 and 41, at Fatman's Inn. Dead is Thomas J. Balistreri, age 78, of Oak Creek, Wis. He was pronounced dead a few hours later at St. Therese Medical Center. Garry Laffredi, age 40, of Waukegan, is free on bond after being charged with: reckless homicide, possession of cannabis, failure to give aid or information, leaving the scene of accident involving death and driving under the influence. His bond was set at $75,000 and he posted $7,500.

Proposed downtown hits snag

VERNON HILLS—Vernon Hills plans for a downtown-type of atmosphere and boulevard at the Cuneo location, may have hit a snag. In order to alleviate some of the traffic, village officials had been hoping and planning for a more pedestrian-like downtown with smaller shops and businesses along a boulevard in the proposed 2,200-unit housing development.

During a recent workshop with the developer, village officials learned all the available property had been sold residential, leaving little or no space for a small commercial sector. The developer did note a pedestrian boulevard is still possible, but without the shops.

LHS could offer Internet

LIBERTYVILLE—Libertyville High School could be the hub to access the information superhighway for county schools. Through the help of Argonne National Laboratories, Libertyville High School officials are in the process of writing a grant application to acquire the training and equipment necessary to offer access to the Internet. For as little as a nickel a day, area schools would be able to link up on Internet.

Residents gain support

LAKE ZURICH—Residents opposed to the continued use of an abandoned sewer treatment plant have gained the support of two trustees who oppose the plan to continue storing equipment and vehicles on the site. Trustee Laurence B. Coffey said he would have supported the committee recommendation, had it included any mention of limitations on the use of the Southeast Treatment Plant on Old Mill Grove Road. The recommendation is scheduled to be presented before the full board of trustees at the Dec. 5 meeting. Residents have been opposed to its continued use, as it is surrounded by four subdivisions and an elementary school.

Fox Waterway agency to elect three directors

Nominating petitions for three four-year director positions on the Chain O'Lakes Fox River Waterway Management Agency Board are available from the State Board of Elections, State of Illinois, 1020 S. Spring St., P.O. Box 4187, Springfield, IL 62708. Two director will be elected in McHenry County and one will be elected in Lake County.

Petitions will be accepted by the State Board of Elections in Springfield at the above address between Jan. 16 and 23, 1995.

Potential candidates must be a resident of a member county and reside within the territory of the agency. A minimum of 200 qualified signatures, who are voters of such county and also reside within the territory of the agency, are required. Information on the boundary of the territory of the agency is available at the Fox Waterway Agency office, 64 E. Grand Ave. in Fox Lake.

Further questions should be directed to State Board of Elections at (217)782-1518 or (217)782-4141.

Teddy—Longest resident looking for a home

"Teddy" is a black, three-year-old mostly lab mix male with a sad story to tell. Teddy came to us as a stray from Grayslake, as a nine-month-old puppy in December of 1992.

This handsome dog, our longest resident, has been here ever since. He will sit and give you his paw, but he'd love to give you his heart as well. Teddy loves other dogs and is responsive and eager to please. Teddy needs basic leash training, but this smart dog will learn anything you want to teach him.

Orphans of the Storm is located at 2200 Riverwoods Rd. in Deerfield. Call 945-0235 for further information.

Plan

Cost for either extension is estimated at least $12 million. The department's annual budget for county transportation needs is $28 million. Many citizens said the county would be spending too much money on a three-quarter mile stretch of road that would serve a small amount of people.

"I think there are so many other roads in this county that we can spend our money on more wisely," said John Schmidt, a Wadsworth area resident.

County Board member Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa said her constituents have voiced a strong opposition against having to pay for an extension in a remote part of the county.

"We don't want to pay $1 million for a road that is only going to affect a small amount of people," Schmidt said.

County Board member Martha Marks of Riverwoods said she fears setting the precedent of building roads through forest preserve lands. She also said the road would inevitably spray salt and oil into the renowned Des Plaines River Wetlands Demonstration Project.

"One of its goals was to clean up the Des Plaines River," Marks said of the project which has attracted scientists from around the world. "Sooner or later this road is going to be heavily used, otherwise there wouldn't be a need for it. Pollutants from the runoff will eventually go washing right back down to the Des Plaines River."

County Board member Carol Calabresa argued that the traffic study was originally done to see if an extension was possible, but now she said special committee meetings and board meetings are being called before board members can sift through the rather lengthy document. She also noted that committee members were only given two voting options of either a northern or a southern route. Not building the road extension was not one of the alternatives.

"This board was sold on that this would be just a study to see if it could be done," Calabresa said. "Now we are being asked which one of the negatives do you want."

County Board member Robert Neal of Wadsworth signed on the document after it was made clear that no construction authorization was made and no funding was allocated toward the project. The approved document allows the county and forest preserve district to proceed with the necessary measures to acquire the right of the ways for the extension.

Neal, who opposed the extension now, said a Yorkhouse Road extension may be necessary in the future. "I don't think it is now. I don't think it is in the near future, but I do think it's going to happen," he said.

Both the Forest Preserve District and the full County Board are expected to meet in special sessions Dec. 3 to vote on whether to proceed with the necessary land acquisitions.

WINTER WONDERLAND

Several steps to take when, if power goes out

Heavy snow, ice, high winds and frigid temperatures are enemies of reliable electric service. So before—and after—winter storms rip through the Lake County area, knocking out power, there are a number of steps you should take to help you and your family through any outage.

If your lights go out, check to see if power is out in the neighborhood or if only your house is affected. If it seems to be affecting only your house, call the local utility office and report the problem. Otherwise, wait a few hours before calling to avoid overloading the switchboard. Chances are, the crews are already on their way.

Do not try to operate a furnace which requires a blower while the power is off.

Unplug or turn off appliances such as toasters and televisions. Also, keep doors and windows shut and drapes and curtains drawn.

If you spot a fallen power line or burning transformer, don't hesitate to give the utility a call. However, do not attempt to move the power line yourself and do not step in nearby puddles. Extra care should be given so that children do not wander near fallen lines.

Always keep a fresh supply of batteries on hand and place a flashlight in a convenient location so you can find it quickly.

Transistor radios come in handy, too. Stay tuned to local stations to keep informed about the outage and when the utility expects to have power restored.

Food will stay fresh in a freezer for up to 24 hours but for less time in a refrigerator. It's a good idea to keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed as much as possible so the cold air does not escape. If it appears that the outage may be lengthy, you might want to put dry ice into the refrigerator or remove the contents altogether and store them at the home of a friend or relative who does have electricity.

While electricity is usually restored within a few hours, damage caused by severe winter ice storms may take longer to repair. This is because heavy ice may cause large sections of wire to fall, and crews must exercise extreme caution when working under these dangerous conditions.

Remembering and practicing these few suggestions will help you and your family through a power outage.

Safety questions on project unfair

Fire safety is the last question to be raised in the debate over multiply-family construction. High density? Traffic congestion? Infra-structure support? School impact? Yes. But fire safety? No! Maybe news.

Surprisingly, questions of whether fire safety codes are being compromised for a proposed Lake Zurich development have been raised. Critics of the 249 home project on 106 acres north of the village off Midlothian Rd. say code requirements for masonry walls separating 140 townhouse units are being watered down.

The facts are Terrestris Development Co. of Oak Brook is proposing brick and aluminum siding construction which will require a building code variance. Otherwise, the units will be built to code, including sprinklers and two-hour fire walls. Fire Chief Terry Mastrandrea says the proposed construction will meet safety standards.

Arguments that Terrestris three bedroom townhouses will attract enough students to "fill" a new grade school also have been raised. Such charges are commonplace in the on-going battle over growth and development. But fire safety questions are rare.

Instead of dwelling on the shaky and unfair fire safety argument, critics would do well to pose the bigger question of whether a new wave of Lake Zurich growth is supported by the voters. That's a legitimate question, not fire safety.

Important date to note: April 4

April 4 is the next important date looming large in our public life. Not Dec. 25 or Jan. 1. Those are holidays, time for families and celebration. April 4 is local election day when seats for village councils are to be filled. The business of government.

While pundits still wring their hands over the meaning of the November election and what direction the Republican majority will take the nation, there's no question that the first Tuesday of April is significant because it's the occasion for voter judgment on grass-roots governance. That day electors make decisions affecting our community for months and years to come.

Serious candidates for local offices will have their plans in place before the year is out. Electors will have to be just as serious and thoughtful deciding as to who will be sitting in the seats of power come next spring. This is a call for the voting public not to take local elections for granted.

Train whistles take the cake

Life in suburbia isn't getting any easier. If it isn't the roar of jet planes taking off, it's the wail of fire sirens. Hot-rodgers peeling rubber get on the nerves. Barking dogs never cease. Worse, it's train whistles piercing neighborhood tranquility.

That's the case these days in Antioch, the latest community to take up the age-old problem of noisy train whistles.irate citizens have dumped their annoyance with whistle-happy engineers on the Wisconsin Central Railroad in the laps of village trustees. Homeowners adjacent to the tracks opine that they are losing sleep.

For the time being, village officials have chosen not to join 50 other communities in the six-county Chicago area where train whistle control ordinances have been enacted. Whistle controls would court liability, they insist.

Mayor Marilyn Shineflug said that Antioch's problem is that engineers are required by state law to whistle at any crossing not guarded by gates and flashers. Antioch has three such crossings.

Train noise is bound to become an even bigger problem in 1996 when Antioch becomes the northern terminus of commuting service on the Wisconsin Central. Meanwhile, a public meeting is being planned to hash over differences. Maybe shouts of protest will drown out the whistles. Anyone for earplugs?

VIEWPOINT Clinton photo depicts a leader in disarray

Publisher

A nationally syndicated photo published the other day provided an insightful view of why President Clinton is disdained, ridiculed and held in disrepute by so many Americans these days.

The photo caption related that the President was on a golf course in Hawaii. His jaw twisted slightly sideways, Clinton was wearing a sappy grin even though he obviously was aware that his photo was being taken.

A roll of flab was showing above the belt. Sports trousers ballooned over ample thighs. A whipping wind had blown the President's hair askew, leaving a broad expanse of expressionless brow.

Capping the caricature of a first-time tourist living it up in the island paradise was a hand held up to the Presidential ear as if to say, "eh?"

There he was for all the world to behold, a laughing, lounging simpleton masquerading as the President of the United States, the most powerful nation on earth, and the leader of the free world.

I have cringed in the past when a hostile press photographed Republican presidents in uncomplimentary poses. I could hear devious editors laughing, "Boy, did we nail Tricky Dicky. Ho, ho, Ronnie wasn't posing this time. Ha, ha. George has a foot in his mouth again." I cringed again viewing the unkind, uncomplimentary photo of President Clinton.

What I saw was the embodiment of a back hills bumkin. The epitome of "hickness." An unreconstructed rube. A gold plated, blue ribbon country boy; slack jaw, glazed eyes and all. An Oxford graduate and brilliant politician? Not!

In a relaxed, off-guard moment, President Clinton presented himself photographically as what conservatives, die-hard Republicans, foes in his own party and right wing talk show hosts have been telling us all along. Bill Clinton is hopelessly unrepresentative. He plays the part (opponents insist) and now he looks the part.

The results of Nov. 8 rocked President Clinton back on his heels. It remains to be seen if a Republican Congress can belt the President into the ropes. As the AP photo taken in Hawaii dramatized, the President of the United States doesn't make a pretty picture these days.

LETTERS TO THE Editor

'No growth' vote ignored

Editor:

I am writing this letter out of the great concern I feel about Lake Zurich's proposed housing developments. Several years ago, the voters sent a very strong message when they elected a "no growth" board.

Now we see plans to annex here and rezone there that would mean hundreds of new houses and the proliferation of townhouses. I don't just pay village taxes, I pay school taxes. We have good schools and we have planned for projected growth in our schools. These new projects were not planned for and should not be accommodated.

How does the village stop them? Make builders adhere to one acre zoning for residential. Our surrounding communities do. Why can't we?

Deadly product

Editor:

The Illinois Federation for Right to Life was part of the original consumer boycott against the producers of RU 486 announced by the National Right to Life Committee in conjunction with several other organizations on July 7.

On Monday, Nov. 21, 23 other groups joined the RU 486 consumer boycott against the producers of RU 486. The consumer boycott targets Hoechst Roussel Pharmaceuticals, Hoechst Roussel Agri-Vet and Copley Pharmaceutical, the American subsidiaries of Hoechst AG and Roussel Uclaf, producers of the abortifacient RU 486.

RU 486 kills a developing baby whose heart has already begun to beat. Furthermore, RU 486 endangers the lives of women, whose bodies are assaulted by toxic chemicals, which even proponents admit often cause serious complications, such as severe pain and profuse bleeding. Though some find it shocking, it should hardly be a surprise that a drug specifically designed to destroy human life would also be dangerous to the lives of those who take it.

Think big trap returns

Editor:

Uncontrolled growth is again threatening the quality of life in Lake Zurich.

In 1989, the voters sent a clear message to those seeking election—more parks, not subdivisions. The promises that were made to control growth are fading under the pressure of the all too familiar bigger is better thinking.

In the last six months our village has been burdened by proposed developments that would add over 500 houses and townhouses.

I do not believe that the residents asked for a glut of housing. There were no petitions circulated that asked to replace open space and carefully planned See LETTERS page B7

-PARTY LINES-

Four-term official to bow out in April

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

This is the time of year long-time village officials are taking tabs on the future to decide whether they want four more years of a tough and often thankless job.

One veteran trustee going for another four is Darwin "Dar" Follman, senior member of the Fox Lake Village Board and the closest person to being a deputy mayor if there was such an office.

"Sure, I'm going for another term. You bet," exclaims Follman, who regularly is accorded the honor of being named mayor pro tem when Fox Lake's duly elected mayor is not present.

Madole

With no regrets, William "Bill" Madole, a four-term trustee of Libertyville, decided early that he will be stepping down when his current term ends after the April 4 election.

"There were very few times I didn't feel I was doing something good for my community," remarked Madole, a lifelong resident of Libertyville, whose departure will signal the end of the board's link with the time Libertyville was smaller and different than now.

Fast start—After swearing in ceremonies on the 10th floor of the County Building Thursday morning, Willard Helander promptly went downstairs to her new office as Lake County Clerk. "Thursday's a work day," said Helander, shunning a great deal of fuss about taking over from Linda Hess, who did not seek reelection.

Staying put—While media speculation about the 1996 U.S. Senate race continues, Congressman John Porter (R-10th) right now is more interested in the reorganization of the House and his prospective post as chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee for Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education.

Porter is in line for the job which would give him controls of the purse strings for a major component of the federal government, second only to the Dept. of Defense.

Heading west—Accounts of the decision of Zion Police Chief Lloyd DeTienne Jr. to retire failed to mention that two decades ago he was a highly regarded contender for sheriff of Lake lawman also indicated that he'll remain active in politics. That pronouncement opens up a host of possibilities.

Subpoenas questioned—Republicans may be in control in the state and county board level but that doesn't necessarily translate to peace among the ranks. County Board Member Larry Leafblad is upset he and Board Member Suzi Schmidt have been subpoenaed by Patrick Sign Company which is represented by Rep. Robert Churchill.

Helping hand—Rep. Al Salvi met with the James Hult, Round Lake school board president, and Terri Zumbrook, president of Education Association of Round Lake to help ease the tensions between both sides.

Money no problem, name is—Trustee for the Village of Island Lake, Fred Bigham said the fact the District 118 School Board would like more developer donations for their new school is not a problem. What Bigham said may very well be an issue of concern among Island Lake officials and the school board, is the naming of the new building. "Island Lake trustees want it named 'Island Lake School,'" said Bigham. Sources say there are only a few school board members who agree.

Cuneo crack—During the inaugural ribbon-cutting ceremony marking the Vernon Hills "Festival of Lights" drive-through park, a handful of honorees were on hand to celebrate the beginning of the Christmas light spectacular. One of the dignitaries who cut the ribbon included Herta Cuneo, who is generously allowing more than 40,000 visitors travel through the Cuneo Gardens to get a glimpse of the Christmas figures and scenes highlighted by thousands of lights. She quipped, "We'll even let people from Libertyville to come in." During the late 1980s, the Cuneos worked to no avail with Libertyville officials to annex the property. Now that Vernon Hills annexed the property and is proposing a 2,200-unit housing development there, Party Lines wonders if the drive-through winter wonderland will be available when building begins in the next decade.

Slow night—The Nov. 28 Mundelein Village Board meeting was moving along rapidly with routine business and very little discussion. Mayor Marilyn Sindles asked for committee reports from various chairmen, most of whom had nothing to say. When she got to Trustee Bruce Campbell, chairman of the Fire Committee, he paused for a minute, then announced, "I'd like to report the fire truck tires are all filled with air."

Quiet race—While other towns have candidates considering runs for office in the April 4 election, Wadsworth is expecting a quiet race. "I think people are pretty happy with the way things are going," Mayor Don Craft said. Craft is seeking re-election. The town is now home to a spanky new village park.

development with high density growth and congestion. Moreover, the proposed housing does not meet the needs of many in the village that could use housing. Such people include seniors, municipal employees and first-time home buyers.

The quality of life in Lake Zurich is precious and should not be lost to over development.

Yorkhouse Road outrage

Editor:

The county's $560,000 study for the proposed Yorkhouse Rd. extension has been published. Unfortunately, the report is a "how to" document, not "whether."

Ostensibly, the extension is needed to alleviate traffic congestion, but the survey shows higher traffic in the area after the extension is built than without it. Further, the survey completely ignores the Delany/Rte. 41 intersection, where there is legitimate concern for congestion.

The study eloquently discusses "maintaining a healthy and competitive economic climate" through providing additional access to Waukegan Airport. I don't believe that Lake County's entire economic future hinges on Waukegan Airport, which has ample access already.

It never acknowledges that in 1990 Yorkhouse Rd. was removed from the county's plans.

The survey further tries to build a case for increased emergency access needs. Yet the Newport Fire Dept., when asked, could not give a single instance of harm from an ambulance being delayed by a train.

The survey seriously downplays the success of the Wetlands Restoration project and the concerns of its management. The extension will bisect this important project.

The intense opposition to this project is ignored. Although the public information meetings are acknowledged, the tone of them is not. DOT officials admit that the meetings were "overwhelmingly negative." The extension is opposed by conservation and civic groups as well as Newport Twp., the Village of Wadsworth, the Village of Long Grove, and others.

Worst of all is the cost. The county's report confirms the cost will be at least $12 million. In light of the fact that Lake County's total annual road budget is $15 million, spending that much for a 3/4-mile stretch of road is ludicrous. The entire county should be outraged.

COMMENTARY

Union ad misdirects support of parents

REV. KERRY S. DOYAL

Extortion! How else are we to take the Education Assn. of Round Lake's placement of an ad in local papers telling potential home purchasers to the Round Lake Area to "think twice"? As I have thought about this ad, I can only conclude that it was ill-advised at best and requires, at minimum, similar ads of apology.

Allow me to list a variety of reasons this ad was out of line. Politically, this was naive as it bites the hands that feed you. A major portion of school funding comes from property taxes, ergo property owners. If EARL hopes to rally parents to their side, insulting and extorting ads are not the savvy way to do so.

From a selfish angle this was less than smart. Studies consistently show that involved parents are a teacher's most powerful ally in seeing results in a student. For our kids' sake, we need each other. Don't build walls.

Homeowners are the parents who want to stand by efforts to teach our children. Also, let's assume this ad works to drive down property value in the area by this cheaply administered black eye. If property values drop, will not taxes also drop, and with them money for our school system? What chance will any teacher have for well deserved proper compensation if that is the case?

As sufficient as those reasons are, there is a far deeper issue at stake. Does not every student have a right to now clip this ad and tape it to their school I.D.? Students could quickly flash this when a teacher reprimands them for immature or inappropriate behavior (E.G., extorting lunch money, bullying other students).

Role models are already scarce enough. I challenge teachers who do not agree with this ad and this tactic of their union to run a disclaimer distancing themselves from this brutish ad. Teachers, I encourage you to have the courage to stand up by name for what's right. Show your students what it means to stand for what's right, even when your peers can pressure or crush you. That would be one lesson not missed by your students.

None of us will ever forget the five-year-old in Chicago who died for what was right by not stealing candy for thugs. We rightly honor his courage, which was obviously modeled for him by someone of stature in his life. Teachers continue to give us reason to applaud your efforts by being that kind of person. Don't let any powerful force wrongly steal a victory through unadmirable tactics. You could clip your disclaimer ad with your name and proudly display it on your I.D. I close with the words of one of history's wealthiest teachers: "A good name is to be desired more than riches" (King Solomon, eminent teacher: see Proverbs 22:1).

Editor's note: Rev. Kerry S. Doyal is pastor of Lake Region Bible Church. He made note that he is the "proud daddy of the sweetest kindergartner in the Round Lake School Dist."

Creating family holiday traditions, not strife

Come the holidays, the "peace on earth" concept sometimes frays in households where cultures and traditions compete because of blended stepfamilies or interfaith marriages.

But a reasoned approach, ladled with a healthy respect for other ways of doing things, can help such families develop a meaningful holiday observance that represents the best of everyone's heritage.

That's the advice of Alan Weintraub, LSW, program director, Forest Outpatient Clinic and Chet Mirman, Ph.D., co-director of the Center for Divorce Recovery at Forest Hospital.

"I've seen families that let mine-vs.-yours battles tear them apart at the holidays," says Weintraub. "It's tragic, because families are missing the opportunity to create a celebration that reflects what's uniquely theirs. Over time, this 'new' way of doing things can become yet another treasured tradition that's handed down for generations."

Learning about and respecting the holiday observances or beliefs of your spouse, in-laws or other members of your stepfamily pays dividends, notes Dr. Mirman. "When other members of the family take the trouble to understand who you are and where you're coming from, it's comforting. Once that begins, it's easier to bridge the differences."

Trying to merge new ways into old can be complicated, of course, especially in tradition-tied families where a new recipe for pumpkin pie is seen as a travesty. But complicated doesn't mean insurmountable, says Dr. Mirman.

"Just acknowledging that there's conflict is progress," he says. "Once you label something, you can begin to talk about it as a family and work toward solutions."

Flexibility, rather than hard and fast rules, is the key. One family may be able to fit together pieces of tradition jigsaw-style to produce a seamless and personalized celebration, while another may agree to alternate full-scale annual observances—even years are "my way," odd years are "your way."

What's really important is not how the holidays are structured, but that they're created as part of a family effort.

"Our children learn from us," Weintraub emphasizes. "Often, they're confused and have no central idea of what the holidays are about. We can either tear them apart with dissension or give them security and traditions that they can pass down to their children."

—WOMEN'S HEALTH—

The season of joy . . . and sorrow

Marty has been worried since June about how she will spend the holidays this year. She has bitter memories of crying last Christmas Day while her boyfriend went off by himself to see his family. Just the anticipation of the holiday season makes her feel down.

Kim calls Christmas "Cris-mas." It seems that every year her family erupts into some sort of crisis during the holidays, right at the worst possible time. Last year, she left the country to avoid the holiday season altogether.

It's that time of year again. As the cold winds start to blow and the holiday lights appear, moods are often affected. For many, this is a happy but hectic time, full of preparation for holiday get-togethers, buying gifts and celebrating. But for others, this is a season of sadness, a lonely period full of reminders of how life "ought to be."

Some struggle to keep their spirits up while all around are signs of others' joy. Holidays have a way of causing people to reevaluate where their life is and how their relationships stack up. Idealized visions of what family life should be like may lead to strong feelings of disappointment.

Memories of the past may bring feelings of nostalgia as well as grief for those who are no longer present. Losses, through death, divorce or separation can make the holiday season especially painful.

Commercialization of the holidays can lead to a sense of emptiness. Some struggle to find a sense of meaning amidst all the hubbub.

For a few, feeling down at this time of year can be a more serious problem. We now know that some people are more prone to depression during certain seasons of the year. The most common pattern is for depression to occur during the fall and winter, with improvement in mood occurring in the spring and summer. Those who experience repeated bouts of depression at a particular 60-day period of the year are said to suffer from Seasonal Affective Disorder (or SAD). Women are affected four times more often than men. The symptoms typically include depressed mood, fatigue, irritability, an increase in appetite, weight gain, craving for carbohydrates, increase in sleep and general sense of slowing. Interpersonal difficulties may intensify during this period.

SAD has become a topic of much interest within psychiatry, especially because it may respond to a very unique form of treatment: light. Phototherapy refers to treatment with bright light during the season when depression occurs. This treatment requires exposure to a special bright light which should be administered by a physician. For some, this extra light may "brighten" their mood.

Much more common than SAD are lesser degrees of the holiday blues or the winter doldrums. So what can be done to keep away the holiday blues? How can one increase the sense of joy? A few suggestions may help:

1. Have realistic expectations. Avoid perfectionism. The holidays can be just as enjoyable without you losing sleep to make the perfect decorations or cook that extra dish.

2. Do not expect a recreation of the past. Develop new traditions rather than dwell on how this year's celebration falls short of previous years.

3. Avoid becoming overstressed. Get enough sleep, do not overeat or drink too much. Give yourself enough time for making preparations.

4. Set aside time to slow down and enjoy. Snuggle up with kids or grandchildren, take time to listen to music of the season, go out with a friend.

5. Consider volunteer work and giving to charities. The holidays can still have much meaning, and a focus on giving to others can bring much satisfaction.

6. Seek the company of others. Take the initiative. Look for others who may appreciate your company as well.

7. Seek professional help if depression is persistent or severe or interferes with functioning.

The holidays need not be a period of stress or crisis. With the proper attitude, this can still be the season it was meant to be: A season of joy and hope.

Arthritis expert brings expertise to Chicago

A nationally renowned expert in the field of rheumatology and arthritis has been appointed professor and chairman of the department of medicine and professor in the department of microbiology and immunology at Finch Univ. of Health Sciences/The Chicago Medical School, according to Herman Finch, chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Prior to coming to Chicago, Dr. Gall was the director of the Univ. of Arizona Arthritis Center in Tucson and chief of the section of rheumatology/allergy and immunology. Dr. Gall is board certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine with a subspecialty in rheumatology. He received fellowships from the American College of Rheumatology, as well as the Young Arthritis Award and a Bronze Star for Meritorious Achievement for clinical investigations for the U.S. Army.

A member of the American College of Physicians, the Chicago Rheumatism Assn. and the Lake County Medical Society, Gall also served nationally as past vice chairman of the Arthritis Foundation, and as past president of the Arthritis Health Professions Assn., and he is a current director on the board of the American College of Rheumatology.

Gall received his bachelor's degree in zoology and his medical degree from the Univ. of Pennsylvania. He and his wife Katherine have two children and live in Libertyville.

Hospice celebrates 20th anniversary

Brightly colored posters and cherished memorabilia decorated the Woodstock and Barrington offices of the Hospice of Northeastern Illinois (HNI) in a double anniversary celebration. November of 1994 marked the 20th anniversary of Hospice in the United States, and the 10th anniversary of Hospice of Northeastern Illinois.

"It is a very special time for us," says Jane Bilyeu, executive director of HNI. "We have an opportunity to acknowledge not only the work and commitment that went into beginning the first U.S. hospice 20 years ago, but also to acknowledge and thank those individuals instrumental in developing the organization that was to become Hospice of Northeastern Illinois."

Over 200 staff, volunteers, area health care professionals and community members attended the two events, scheduled to coincide with the observance of November as National Hospice Month. Growth locally and nationally was a major topic of conversation.

In 1974, the first U.S. hospice cared for nearly 100 patients and families in the New Haven, Conn. area, while in 1994, over 300,000 patients were cared for by hospices nationwide. At the Hospice of Northeastern Illinois, four patients received hospice care in 1984, while over 1,000 persons in five counties will receive care by year's end 1994. Hospice for McHenry County merged with Hospice of Northeastern Illinois in 1989.

"The growth and exposure of hospice allows more patients and families to exercise the option of care directed toward quality of life for time remaining," adds Bilyeu, "that is and always will be our goal of service."

Questions regarding hospice services, making a donation or volunteering can be forwarded to the main HNI office at 381-5599.

Help disabled this season

Every year the Lake County Society for Human Development organizes a Holiday Gift Program designed to provide persons with disabilities, 16 years of age and older, a gift from a sponsor in the community. Some would not receive any gifts if it weren't for members of the public and this program. Any individual, family or business may share the joy of this special time of year and "adopt a client."

If interested, volunteers will be assigned to an individual and informed of his/her gift preferences. For more information call Carolina Curi or Arlene Demb at 872-1700.

Give gift of life

'The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe' comes to Mundelein

On Dec. 3 and 4, Paddy Lynn will guest direct her second Kirk Players' childrens' show, C.S. Lewis' "The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe." Along with veteran Kirk Player performers, the cast includes many children and teen guest performers—a total cast of 31. That can present all kinds of challenges for the director. "When you have 'children' of all ages working in a show, you have varying levels of experience. The challenge comes in trying to make the ultimate product look unified. You want to create an ensemble show where all of the acting is of a high quality," said Lynn.

Fortunately, Lynn's past experiences have prepared her well. As a past company member of Trinity Theatre in Evanston, Lynn has performed in and helped put together four children's touring shows. They included pieces of Shakespeare and Chaucer (geared for the upper grades), a mini-theatre history piece (showing how theatre evolved from early Greek mythology to the present day), and a show called "Do You Really Want a Dinosaur?" that mixed theatre with science. In addition, she directed last year's Kirk Players' childrens' show, "Alice in Wonderland."

Why does she do it? "Well, ever since I was in the first grade and got my first part as a lollipop in the school Christmas program, I knew I was in love with the theatre. My opportunities to work with childrens' theatre grew strong in the '80s, and last year when the Kirk Players decided to venture into children's theatre, I was given the first opportunity to direct a full blown childrens' show. There can't be more satisfaction than seeing the smiles on those kids' faces as they watch familiar characters come to life on stage."

Lynn is excited about "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" because it offers touching relationships, sibling

The Witch (Johanna Thomson) attacks Aslan the Lion (Jon Matousek) with the help of her evil assistant, Fenris UW (Gary Gunther).

'Tis the season for toy shopping, how to make smart choices

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

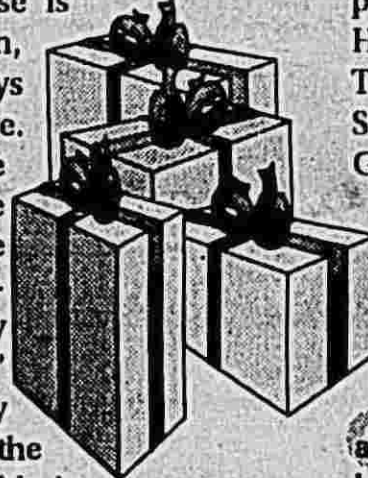

Editor in Chief

With the holiday season upon us, every child is making a list and checking it twice in hopes of impressing in the mind of St. Nick exactly what it is he can't live without.

If the children on your Christmas shopping list fit the mold of most throughout the country, then Power Rangers, video games and Barbie likely top the list.

"Power Ranger merchandise is the top seller," said Brad Grafton, regional advertising manager for Toys 'R' Us, the nation's largest toy store. "Super Nintendo and Genesis style games and their associated software are also popular as is Barbie. In the Barbie line of merchandise the limited edition Holiday Barbie and the My Size Bridal Barbie are the top sellers."

If you're one of Santa's many helpers just how do you sort through the 120,000 dolls, toys and games available in the workshop? Consumer Reports magazine narrowed the list to 32 toys that satisfied educational consultants, engineers and most importantly thousands of children in elementary and middle schools across the country.

Despite the hype surrounding many '90s toys, the favorite toys, by far, were two classics, Mattel's Barbie doll and Lego Building Blocks. Consumer Reports highlights some toys that most adults are less familiar with. A number of toys were well-liked by both boys and girls. Among the most popular were: Carrom Face-Off Hockey II, Darda Deluxe Treacherous Tower, Fisher-Price SkyTalkers, Fisher-Price 3-in-1 Game Center, Kenner Nerf Bow and Arrow, Monneret Grand Stade Football Table, Nickelodeon-Mattel Super Color Writer, OddzOn Koosh Basketball and Toymax Creepy Crawlers.

Grafton's sales figures back-up another Consumer Report survey that board games remain popular favorites of children. Monopoly, Clue, Sorry and Twister are still on the favorites list of kids and Santa's helpers.

"There are some items that do well each year," said Grafton. "Board games, Legos, construction sets, Tonka trucks and Barbie merchandise is always popular."

Toys were divided into categories, each of those likely to provide children with a slightly different mix of learning experiences.

Categories include:

-Active and skill toys- These help eye-hand and overall co-ordination and teach about competition, sportsmanship and following rules.

-Craft and drawing toys-

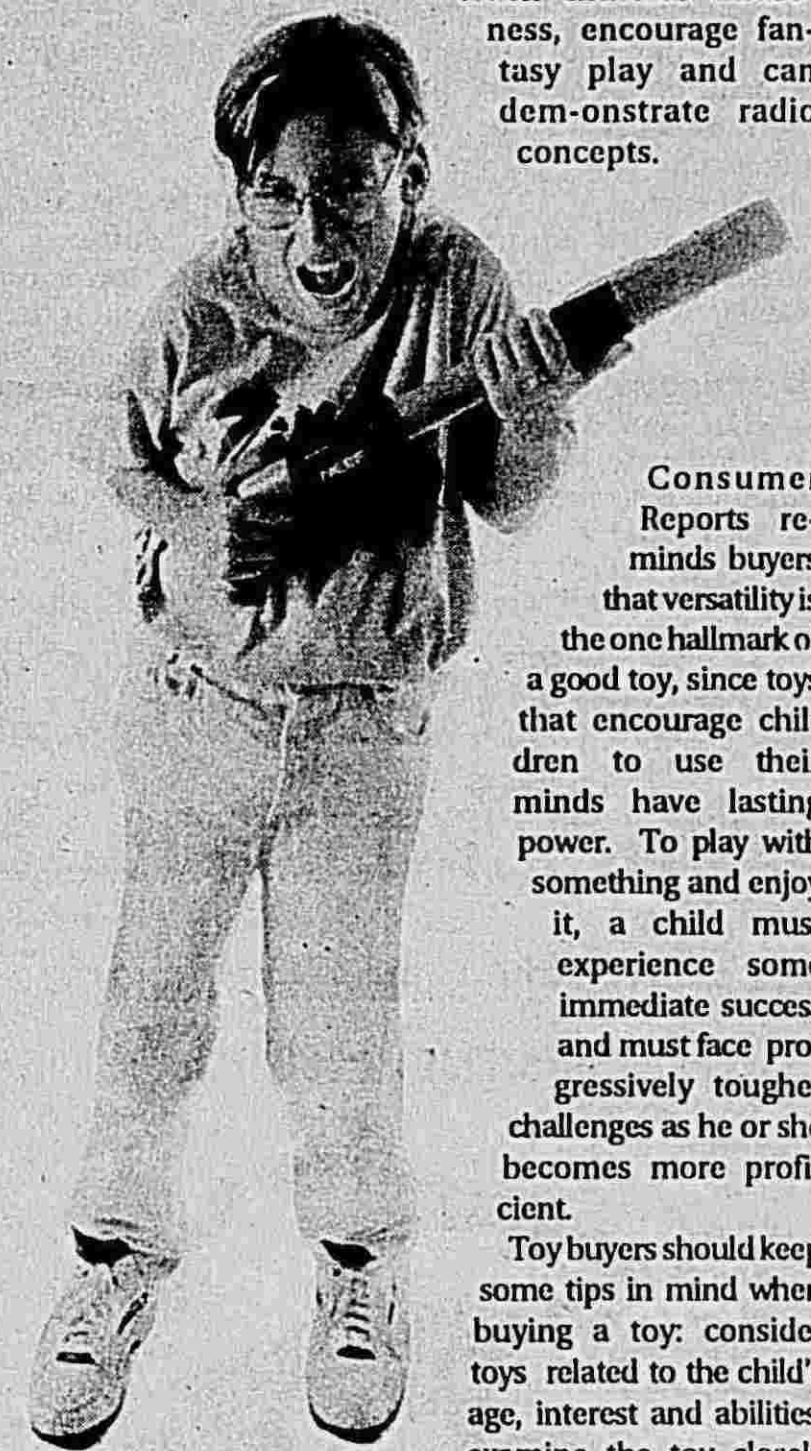

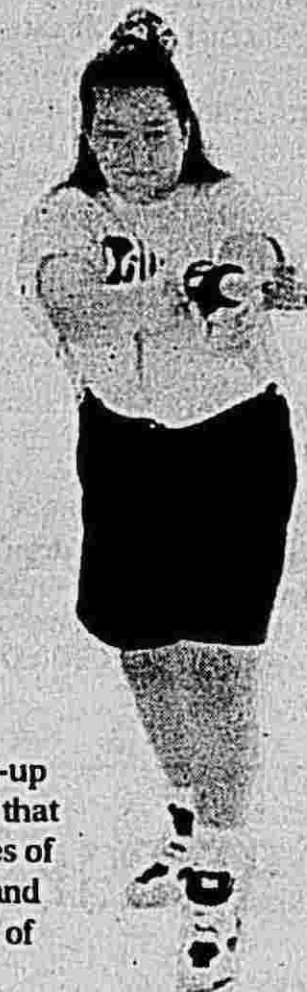

These inspire creativity and self-expression, develop finger, hand dexterity and drawing ability, and teach how to follow directions.

- Racing toys- These help eye-hand coordination teach about speed, gravity and radio-controlled models demonstrate radio concepts.

-Science toys- These encourage exploration, demonstrate specific scientific concepts and develop concentration and critical thinking.

- Food preparation toys- These teach how to follow directions, promote math and cooking skills, safety awareness and encourage fantasy play.

-Electronic entertainment toys- Those tested teach musical awareness, encourage fantasy play and can demonstrate radio concepts.

Consumer Reports reminds buyers that versatility is the one hallmark of a good toy, since toys that encourage children to use their minds have lasting power. To play with something and enjoy it, a child must experience some immediate success and must face progressively tougher challenges as he or she becomes more proficient.

Toy buyers should keep some tips in mind when buying a toy: consider toys related to the child's age, interest and abilities; examine the toy closely looking for safety warnings. If you are buying a toy for an infant or toddler, make sure all seams and small parts are secure. Sturdy construction is paramount and buyers should examine assembly instructions.

Stephanie Moreira and Peter Hutchings test the Nerf Switchfire during 1994 Zillions: Consumer Reports for Kids annual toy test.

Consumers are also warned not to fall under the misconception that bigger and costlier toys are better. Simple, inexpensive toys such as building blocks and crayons can lead to very creative play. Buyers should also not assume, as some children do, there's something special about licensed toys because they bear the likeness of popular TV or movie characters. The same safety criteria should be applied when choosing a Barney or Power Ranger toy.

Once you've found that perfect holiday gift don't hesitate to rush out to the elves shop to make the purchase. Shopping is booming so far this season.

"The crowds are starting a little bit earlier this year," said Grafton. "We are seeing a definite increase for this time of year."

Time to check that list twice.

So You Want Your Luggage To Arrive At The Same Airport You Do?

PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

There's the story of the guy who checks in at "Fly-by-Night" Airlines with three bags. He asks the clerk at the ticket counter to send one bag to Honolulu, another to New York and the third to Miami. The clerk informs the passenger that there is no way they could do this. The passenger replies, "Why not? You did it last week."

With the thousands of pieces of checked luggage passing through airports every day, it's inevitable that someone is going to be separated from their Samsonite. You can take some steps to reduce your chance of being the one having to find a new wardrobe in Jamaica.

Most luggage gets "lost" because the check-in clerk or skycap put the wrong airport tag on it. Learn the three-letter code for the airport to which you are flying. You can find it on your ticket or ask your travel agent. Some codes are obvious. "MIA" is Miami, "HNL" is Honolulu and "STL" is St. Louis. Others, such as "MCO" is Orlando, and "MCI" for Kansas City are not as apparent. Make sure the check-in clerk puts the tag with the correct code on your bag.

Remove all old airport tags from your luggage. If your suitcase still has the airport tag from your last trip to Rome and this one is to Maui, you may have a long wait for your bags to be delivered.

In addition to the required identification tag on the outside of your luggage, put an ID card in the bag. If your tag is torn off during handling, the airline has no way of reuniting the lost bag and the owner unless there is some form of identification inside.

Finally, do something unique to your bag to identify it on the baggage carousel. More than once, someone has not realized they have taken the wrong bag until they get home and have to explain the women's dresses in their suitcase to their wife!

'Forever Plaid' a treasure in its own right

"Forever Plaid" features Greg Walter, Sean Krill, Scot Fedderly and Fred Goudy.

By day, they worked selling auto parts, dental supplies—and "better dresses." By night, the young men, aspiring songsters one and all, came together as the Four Plaids to pursue their dream of bringing harmony to an often-discordant world.

But this group was not meant to take the world by storm. All four perished in an untimely accident the night of their first big gig in 1964. Now 30 years later, they've reassembled to give that all-important unperformed concert.

That's the premise of Stuart Ross' nostalgic 90-minute musical comedy, "Forever Plaid," now mounted in a giddy, inviting production that captures the hokey moves and naiveté of the late '50s-early '60s at the refurbished 200-seat Royal George Cabaret Theatre in Chicago.

While there's nothing "other-worldly" about the smooth-voiced quartet—Scot Fedderly, Fred Goudy, Sean Krill and Greg Walter—they definitely conjure musical memories from yesterday, recalling the Four Lads, paying tribute to Perry Como and putting a be-bop spin on a Beatles' song. They even successfully satirize the Ed Sullivan Show in a frenzied three-minute 11-second spoof.

From "No, Not Much" to "Catch a Falling Star" to "Sixteen Tons" and the big-finish "Love is a Many Splendored Thing," these boys strut their stuff while at the same time battling nosebleeds, asthma attacks and other assorted obstacles.

Despite their appeal, the Four Plaids ultimately may not have made it in the "real world," given the onslaught of hard rock and its offshoots. "Forever Plaid" is a treasure in its own right. Ticket information is available at (312)988-9000.—by TOM WITOM

CLC adds second holiday magic show

Due to popular demand, the College of Lake County program board has added a second "Holiday Magic Show" at 1 p.m. Dec. 3. The 11 a.m. show is sold out. The program, presented by nationally recognized magician David Seebach, will be held in the auditorium, 19351 W. Washington St., Grayslake.

LIFE'S A BEAR

In search of the 'lost' gene

We've all heard a man say, at one time or another in his life, that he's "trying to find himself". To him I say—lots of luck, buddy. I have yet to meet a man who can find anything, much less himself.

Before any male readers get angry with me, I want you to know that I understand. It's beyond your control—it's probably hereditary. I believe that it starts as far back as those first months of your life. That would explain why there seems to be a greater number of girl babies who suck their thumbs than boy babies. And why is that, you ask? Because girl babies can find their thumbs. While the boy baby is crying in frustration for his mother, after trying to suck on his blanket or his kneecap, the girl baby has already managed to find her thumb, and is content to wait for mother.

These tendencies continue on through childhood. Like my 5 year old son, for instance. This morning he came into the kitchen and announced that his two new transformer toys were missing.

"Did you look for them?" I asked.

"No. They're gone. I put them on the kitchen table last night. I'm sure," he insisted.

"Well, I haven't seen them so you must have left them somewhere else. Look in your room, or downstairs."

"They can't be in my room. I left them on the kitchen table."

This conversation was getting nowhere. He continued to insist he hadn't left them anywhere else, refusing to look. That is heredity, too. You see, finding something requires looking, obviously a foreign concept to the average male, no matter his age. When we found his transformers later, on the desk instead of the kitchen table, my son just grinned sheepishly and said, "How did they get there?"

By adolescence, the male child's inability to find things causes mothers to mutter in exasperation, "he's just like his father—he couldn't find his nose in front of his face." Add to this the fact that most adolescent boys like their bedrooms to resemble the aftermath of a nuclear war, and you can understand why things get lost. Usually important things—like Mom's car keys, or his report card. (Actually, I'm not sure I believe that report cards ever get lost—if the grades weren't good, the card probably ended up the same way Jimmy Hoffa did—permanently removed from existence).

Adult males are the most prone to the "unable to find his nose in front of his face" syndrome. I've noticed this even in the workplace. A male co-worker recently appeared at my desk to ask if we had any more message pads.

"Did you look in the supply cabinet?"

"Not yet."

"There should be some in there," I told him, and then I sat and counted to 10, knowing he'd be back to say he couldn't find them. Nine seconds later, he returned.

"Are you sure they are in there? I didn't see any," he said, with that "couldn't find the message pads if they bit him" look on his face.

"Let me check." I walked purposefully to the supply drawer, opened it up, and (surprise!) there were the message pads, underneath a small box of staples. I handed him the pads, and he grinned sheepishly. Of course, all men grin sheepishly when confronted with the fact that women can find things and they can't. And though I hate to admit it, we women tend to respond by gloating and saying something like, "So tell me—how did you find your way to work this morning?"

But, hey, guys—don't feel bad. Any day now, I'm sure we'll be reading an article describing how scientists have discovered that men have what is called, in layman's terms, the "lost" gene, while women have what is called the "find" gene. Really. Of course, the scientist who finds the "lost" gene will have to be a woman...

Get ready for holiday treats

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

The holiday season is the time for sharing delicious sweet creations with family and friends. Along with your traditional tollhouse, sugar and crescent cookies try this recipe from the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin.

Dairyland Tri-Topped Cheesecake Bars

2 1/2 cups Four-Way Crumble Dough (see below)
2 packages 8 ounces each cream cheese softened
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 eggs
4 squares (1 ounce each) semi-sweet chocolate melted
1/4 cup sliced almonds
1/2 cup coconut
2 bars (2.07 ounces each) chocolate covered peanut and caramel candy bars, chopped
1 cup maraschino cherries, well-drained chopped

Press dough onto bottom of 10x15-inch jelly roll pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes or until firm to the touch. Beat cream cheese, sugar, vanilla at medium speed of electric mixer until fluffy. Blend eggs at low speed, stir in chocolate. Spread over crust. Sprinkle almonds over 1/3 of cream cheese mixture; sprinkle coconut over almonds. Top another 1/3 of cheesecake mixture with candy bar pieces. Top remaining 1/3 with chopped cherries. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Cool, cut into squares or bars.

Four Way Crumble Dough

1 1/2 cups butter softened
1 3/4 cups brown sugar
6 cups flour

Blend together butter and sugar at medium speed of electric mixer. Add flour, mix with electric mixer or hands. Dough will have a crumbly consistency. Divide and use as indicated in recipes. May be used immediately or stored in refrigerator or freezer for 3 days. Makes 9 cups.

REVIEW

'Vampire,' as bloody as expected

Tom Cruise and Brad Pitt

It's no wonder all the blood banks are screaming "shortage!" Hollywood has been confiscating it all for its latest critically acclaimed movies such as "Pulp Fiction," "Frankenstein," and most recently, Tom Cruise's controversial "Interview With the Vampire."

Whoops! We said Tom Cruise's "Vampire," when the movie really belongs equally to newcomer Brad Pitt. Don't get us wrong, Cruise was a very acceptable Lestat, but, gorgeous Tom Cruise with long blond locks goes over about as much as his scruffy look in "Born On the Fourth of July," did.

This is another very R-rated that has more sanguine, sleazy, savage, shocking and slaughter-filled, sexuality than any vampire movie ever made. All this has more effect in Technicolor in contrast to the black and white classics.

Like "Pulp Fiction," unless one is a vampire aficionado, the gore, horrendous bite shots, etc. are like a snake, mesmerizing, disquieting, somewhat disgusting, yet the film is an experience.

There are those, no doubt, that afterwards will agree that "Vampire" is all those things, and then ask themselves, "Did I need to know this?"

Christian Slater is a down-and-out reporter who interviews a self-confessed vampire, Pitt. Here we are treated to 18th century flashbacks when Pitt, upset after his wife's death, meets Lestat, and eventually offers his blood and becomes a vampire.

Cruise's character is that of a happy, very decadent vampire, sucking his way through centuries of men and woman with great delight.

In contrast, we have Pitt, who finds himself not fond of a vampire's usual job, and for a long time makes do with a variety of animals, etc. There is one scene with a rat — 'nuff said.

Director Neil Jordan ("Crying Game") brings his dark genius to the film, but much of the dialogue, which we attribute to Anne Rice, who wrote the book the picture is based on, is artistic verbosity at its dullest. In fact, the only reason one gets through some of these talky-talky scenes is that they are still in shock over the most recent vampire's cocktail hour.

While on a bloody scourge with Cruise, Pitt gets a taste of the blood of an offensive subteen name Claudia, well-played by Kirsten Dunst, and they perform their dastardly deeds together in glamorous places like Paris for the next few centuries.

As far as the genre goes, this is a 'way above average vampire movie, and with that in mind we rated the film four out of five stars.—by GLORIA DAVIS rivalry, thrilling adventures, and mystical characters. "I love the challenge of getting my actors to pull things from inside of themselves—feelings, emotions, etc.—and allowing themselves to grow into these characters. Sometimes they amaze themselves."

Lion

In this tale, four children visiting their aunt for a country holiday find her big wardrobe a fun place to explore, and are amazed to find a whole new world on the other side. Lucy, the youngest (played by Melinda Davis) ventures in first, and finds herself caught in the activities of the many forest creatures, such as Mr. and Ms. Beaver (Royden Slade and Donna Lynn), and the Unicorn (Sharon Arvidson), the Centaur (Tom Schrimpf) and the faun, Tumunus (Pat Blake). It isn't long before Lucy is joined by her siblings: Pete (Tom Kriss), Susan (Veronica Lynn) and Edmund (Jesse Lynn), and they soon find that Narnia is indeed a place of mystery and adventure. For example, why is it always so cold? And is the ruler really a queen, or an evil witch, or a lion? The White Witch (Johanna Thomson) has her own reasons for wanting the children on her side, much to the dismay of Aslan, the lion (Jon Matousek) and his supporters.

The cast also includes Gary Gunther as Fenris Ulf, the head of the Queen's secret police; Jesse Becker as Father Christmas; Shelia Bourque as the White Stag, an elusive omen of good fortune; Wendy Hanks as the Dwarf; Megan Gunther as the Elf; Marta Rose, Rebecca King, Carol Lockwood and Zack King as the Forest Animals; Maureen Slade, Royden Slade, Jr., Fred O'Donnell, Joey Willems, Bob Lockwood and Maureen Kennedy as the Witch's Army; and Tania Lynn, Melanie Lynn and Mary Hanks as the Wood Nymphs.

The excellent technical crew, including Pat Cline as stage manager, Pat Blake as assistant stage manager, and Debbie Stier's wonderful, creative costumes, will do their part to make this show come to life.

In these days when parents can become a bit disenchanted with what children watch on TV, this classic children's story offers an exciting story line and carries a good message. "The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe" will be presented at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 3 and 2 p.m. on Dec. 4 at Mundelein High School. Tickets are $6 for adults, $3 for children under 12 and seniors.

Save-a-Pet plans holiday party

Save-a-Pet will hold its annual Holiday Party on Dec. 10 and 11 from noon to 5 p.m. at the shelter, 2019 Rand Rd. in Palatine. Staff and volunteers will serve refreshments and answer questions concerning the dogs and cats in the shelter. Pets can also be adopted.

It has long been the custom for guests to bring gifts of dog and cat food or other pet supplies. People who have adopted animals from the shelter often come with news and pictures of their pets and then stroll through the dog and cat areas. The Grand Holiday Raffle drawing will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday.

For further information call 934-7788.

Tasty Thai serves up delicious, healthy fare

If you're in a food rut, stop into Tasty Thai for a healthy and delicious alternative that will quickly become a favorite. Owner Tom Ophaphalboon proudly notes that Tasty Thai offers contemporary Thai dining with an exquisite Thai touch.

There are many authentic Thai dishes to choose from, including popular appetizers like Satay Chicken, Thai Sausage, Thai Hot Wings, Spring Rolls, and Shrimp and Vegetable Tempura. A variety of soups, including Tom Yum and Tom Kar, and salads are also on the menu. Thai Noodle dishes such as Pad Thai, Pad See Eiw, and Pad Ki Mao are popular lunch selections. Tasty Thai also offers many varieties of fried rice. Tasty Thai's luncheon buffet features appetizers, soup, and delicious entrees that change daily. The buffet is open from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the very reasonable cost of $4.95.

Entrees include traditional Thai dishes such as Cashew Chicken, which is stir-fried boneless chicken breast with roasted cashew nuts, straw mushrooms, pineapples, pea pods, and bell peppers; Garlic Chicken, a sautéed boneless chicken, beef, or pork with freshly crushed garlic and white pepper, stir-fried with carrots and pea pods; and for those whose taste buds crave spicy concoctions, Hot and Spicy, stir-fried chicken, beef, or pork with onion and green hot pepper in a spicy sauce.

Tasty Thai's menu also includes a variety of Thai Curry, seafood dishes, beverages (including cocktails), and side orders of peanut sauce, cucumber salad, or imported Jasmine Rice, which Tom describes as the "best rice in Thailand." For dessert, don't miss the Thai Custard.

Tom uses Thai herbs for cooking, some of which include lemon grass and lime leaf, giving the food an authentic taste. He says that Thai food is very low calorie, using a great deal of vegetables, seafood, and chicken.

Tasty Thai seats approximately 75 and will provide catering at home or outside locations for 20 or more people. Call (708) 367-1980. Tasty Thai is located at 276 Hawthorne Village Commons in Vernon Hills, and is open Monday through Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 10 p.m.; Friday and Saturday from 11:30 a.m. to 10:30 p.m.; and Sunday from 4 to 9:30 p.m.

BUSINESS BRIEFS

Dinosaur Day at mall store

VERNON HILLS—Families will get a chance to mix the prehistoric with the latest technology at Adventure Learning Club Dec. 3 from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. The Club, located in Hawthorne Mall in Vernon Hills, will present Dinosaur day in conjunction with Kraft Foods. Present for the event will be Kraft's yellow and orange spotted friendly beast known as Cheesaurus Rex along with the latest in kids educational and entertainment software. Kids receive a yellow T-shirts while supplies last, receive a discount on software, and get a photo button that shows them with their new prehistoric friend. The store is a family oriented computer learning environment, entertainment center and a retail store combined. For more information, parents are encouraged to call (312)640-1900.

Firm celebrates grand opening

GRAYSLAKE—Edward D. Jones and Co., the nation's ninth largest investment firm celebrated the opening of its 100th Chicago office in Addison on Dec. 1 according to Noah Seidenberg, the firm's investment representative in Grayslake. In 1985, Edward D. Jones and co. had 914 offices nationwide. Today, it is projecting 10,000 branches by the year 2000; it has opened its first Canadian branches via an affiliate organization, and it's looking toward Europe for future expansion possibilities. Jones has identified 275 additional sites in Chicago alone for branches. However, it is difficult for the firm to say exactly when those offices will be opened. Unlike other companies that expand, Jones does not hire individuals and require them to move to Chicago. Rather, they will wait until they can identify 275 people who not only want to be in the securities business—the way that Jones approaches it—but who also want to build a business and live and raise their families in a particular market, according to Seidenberg.

Info. highway at airports

WAUKEGAN—"Docking" has taken on new meaning at O'Hare Airport. Travelers at O'Hare now are the first in the country to plug computers into stand-alone information stations and send data from one location to another. Ameritech had developed a new modem docking station that acts much like a pay phone, but instead of one person talking to another, one computer talks to another. The company also begins testing another service in Chicago that lets people send and receive faxes from pay phones—the first time Ameritech has offered this service. Both information-age offerings come just in time for the busy holiday travel season.

Army and mall give toys

WAUKEGAN—Lakehurst Mall and The Salvation Army have joined efforts through the Giving Tree Program this holiday season to distribute toys to needy Lake County children for Christmas. The Giving Tree, located in the lower level near the information center is adorned with 500 cards showing the children's names, ages and gender. After people choose a name and a gift, they are asked to deposit the wrapped gift in the collection center located in the east center court. The Giving Tree Program runs through Dec. 20. All gifts collected will be distributed by the Salvation Army.

ATM, banking cards growing as forms of payment

Using a plastic card from their wallets, Chicago area consumers are changing the way they buy everything from gasoline to clothes and groceries.

Surprisingly, however, the plastic isn't a credit card; instead, it's an ATM card or a Banking Card—the cards most often used to get cash from an automated teller machine.

"Volume is growing at more than 50 percent per year," said Tom Tremain, vice president of electronic banking at The First National Bank of Chicago, in a periodic feature called "Money Smarts." "And the growth comes across the age spectrum. The key is that consumers are learning how convenient it is to buy their goods with their ATM card.

"Both the ATM card and the Banking Card work like checks, only better," Tremain said. "There are no interest charges, and there's no checkbook to carry, identification to show or check approval to wait for."

The ease with which both can be used may make a handy alternative to ringing up added debts over the upcoming holiday shopping season, he added.

A purchase with either card is deducted directly from the customer's checking account and appears on the monthly account statement. Besides being used for purchases, ATM and Banking Cards can be used for deposits and withdrawals at thousands of Cash Station ATMs around the Chicago area and for cash withdrawals at more than 100,000 Citrus or PLUS ATMs around the world.

For First Chicago customers, there are no daily limits for Banking Card purchases. "Customers can make purchases up to the amount of their available balance," said Tremain.

About 40 percent of First Chicago's customers use the First Chicago Banking Card. "Our customers love the convenience and accessibility that the Banking Card offers," Tremain said. "They are doing more than one million of these purchases very month."

Tremain sees the First Chicago ATM and Banking Cards as evolving into "the cornerstone of our customer relationship. Eventually, customers may be able to access an unlimited number of accounts with their cards—not just a savings or checking account."

Moreover, the magnetic strip that enables machines to "read" the customer's account information eventually may be replaced with a computer chip allowing the cards to be customized.

For example, the chip could prompt the ATM machine to call up the customer's preferred language automatically. Currently, the consumer has to select the language of choice at bilingual ATMs.

"With continuing improvements in the functions offered through ATM and Banking Cards—and in the ease of using them—growth will continue for years to come," Tremain said.

Farewell tribute honors former clerk Hess

Publisher

Former State Rep. John Matijevich revealed at a farewell tribute to County Clerk Linda Hess why the popular three-term official declined to run for re-election.

Speaking to well-wishers at a cocktail reception at Glen Flora Country Club, Waukegan, Matijevich said Hess told him that she wished to enjoy "a private life" after 12 years in public life.

That decision "says a lot about Linda Hess," stated the one-time Democratic leader in the Illinois House. "She's a wonderful person who believes in human decency—treating everyone fairly and alike," declared Matijevich.

The remarks by Matijevich, who was defeated for re-election two years ago, provided the only serious note to a light-hearted evening of adulation heaped on Hess by fellow democrats, staff workers and a number of Republicans.

Hess, who will begin a career as a financial and investments counselor Jan. 3, maintained the free-wheeling tone. In thanking the attendees, Hess noted that "some of you tried to prosecute me." Recalling that her first vic-

INVESTMENT TRENDS

Noah A. Seldenberg,
Investment Representative of Edward D. Jones & Co.

Politics affect stock little

The latest election has resulted in a major swing of political power from the Democrats to the Republicans. This is the largest gain by Republicans in nearly 50 years. Republicans promise to reduce government control, lower taxes and balance the federal budget, and indeed we may see a reduction in capital gains taxes as well as a tax-rate cut for middle class Americans next year. This would make investing more attractive and accessible for many Americans. It is important to remember, however, that we have a Democratic president and a Congress now largely controlled by Republicans. This could result in two years of political gridlock.

It is even more important to remember that the political climate does not dictate the long-term performance of the stock market. The U.S. economic system is much more powerful than the political system, and many well known, well established companies and the stocks they issue have survived decades of political change.

A good example of this is health-care stocks, which suffered a dramatic decline in value when Democrats began pushing for major health care reform two years ago. Since then, health care stocks have recouped their losses and many have reached new highs.

The bottom line, as always, is that investment decisions should not be based on election results or current market conditions. Rather, they should be based on an investor's individual financial needs and goals.

Editor's note: This is a column highlighting stocks of local interest. The author, Noah Seidenberg, is the local representative for Edward D. Jones & Co., the nation's largest investment firm. For further information or additional questions, call 223-1908.

Preserve gets national recognition

The National Society for Park Resources (NSPR), named the Lake County Forest Preserve District as recipient of the NSPR Founders Award of Excellence, at the National Recreation and Park Association (NRPA) conference in Minneapolis, Minn. on Oct. 14.

The NSPR Founders Award of Excellence honors an organization for professional achievement in the field of parks and recreation. The Forest Preserve District was given the award this year for the successful 1993 Lake County Forest Preserve Bond Referendum Campaign, in which voters overwhelmingly approved $30 million to acquire new forest preserve lands, and improve and restore existing Preserves.

Over 61 percent of Lake County voters approved the bond referendum last November to preserve more natural areas, wildlife habitats, trail and greenway corridors and develop new opportunities for outdoor recreation and education in their forest preserves. Of the total, $20 million is earmarked for land preservation, and $10 million for restoration and improvement of public use areas for recreation, education and cultural facilities.

"The referendum campaign was a very gratifying and positive experience and we are honored to be selected by the National Society of Park Resources for this distinguished award. The campaign was a real grass roots effort and I am proud of the diverse community coalition of conservation, civic and business leaders that came together to support the referendum campaign," said Colin L. McRae, Lake County Forest Preserve President.

Since the passage of the referendum, long-range plans to protect vanishing natural lands are underway at the Forest Preserve District and three new properties have been added to the Forest Preserve system: the 73-acre Grawe addition to Lakewood Forest Preserve near Wauconda; 46-acre Jaeger addition to the Fox River Forest Preserve near Barrington, and; 82-acre Cashman addition, also to Lakewood.

Improvement and master planning efforts are also underway at Cuba Marsh Forest Preserve near Barrington, Grant Woods Forest Preserve near Fox Lake, Fox River Forest Preserve near Barrington, the Des Plaines River Trail and the Libertyville site.

New ERA Real Estate guide available

Electronic Realty Associates, L.P. (ERA Real Estate) has developed a reference guide to help consumers understand the complicated process of buying and selling homes. The guide, called ANSWERS book, addresses the 91 most frequently asked questions about residential real estate. The glossy, 75-page book provides tips, charts, worksheets and information to consumers about completing a successful transaction.

Highlighted by full-color photos and illustrations, the book's Q & A format is divided into selling, buying, financing and home maintenance sections. Countryside Funding Corporation, the nation's largest mortgage lender and servicer, teamed up with ERA to provide information for the financing chapter.

"We found, through focus groups, a lot of anxiety among people who were considering buying or selling their home," said Terri Mueller, ERA vice president of advertising. "ERA created the ANSWERS book to respond to their request for straight talk and sound advice."

A complimentary copy of the ANSWERS book is available to consumers through their local ERA Member Broker or by calling 1-800-TO ASK ERA (1-800-862-7537, ext. 300) or ERA Results Real Estate in Grayslake at 223-7777.

Anixter Center gets help

Shoney's has kicked off its second annual "Pass the Buck" fund raising campaign with all proceeds going to benefit the Lester and Rosalie Anixter Center, a Chicago-area human service agency dedicated to assisting people with disabilities.

Last year's program was a great success. Shoney's raised over $39,000 by selling special coupon books for $1 each. "Our employees were proud to be helping their community and our customers felt good about donating to a worthy cause," commented Bob Blessing, vice president of Lunan Family Restaurants (Shoney's Chicagoland franchisee). "This year, with the added participation of Little Caesars and sponsorship by US99, we hope to raise $50,000 for Anixter Center," he added.

Stuart Ferst, Anixter Center president, adds, "The coupon book buyer, for only $1, will be helping us fulfill our mission to assist people with disabilities to live and work independently in the community."

MURPHY ON REAL ESTATE

Terri Murphy

Security and selling your home

One way to create an exciting and embarrassing moment when showing a home for sale as an agent, is to trip the alarm system. Depending on the system, the police are present in moments, the neighbors are in the streets checking out the commotion, and the prospective buyers uncomfortable at best. The perception of alarms can be both positive and negative to a new homeowner. As a family new to the area, there are questions about why the alarm may be necessary at all. Security systems can be installed for several reasons, and can be found in all levels of homes, for different reasons.

One of the first questions asked by a prospective home purchaser is why the alarm has been installed. Is there a problem with home invasion? Does the area suffer from a crime rate? Although the installation of alarm systems can span several price ranges depending on the services, they do not always translate as an upgrade to the customer.

If the buyer travels a great deal, the asset of a security system gets a favorable reception. In some cases, the homeowner works out of their home and may have important papers and office equipment like computers and faxes that are imperative to doing business that they want protected. Other homeowners may be protecting valuable collections that have more sentimental value than monetary value.

Most systems will offer a central system hookup for fire protection. This means that the call for fire goes directly to the source to provide an immediate response from the fire department. This service can save precious minutes and possibly a life. Other simpler services can at least offer notification of smoke, so damage can be kept to a minimum. Home smoke detectors only work when the electric is on, or the batteries are fresh. Having instant communication with your local fire service or central station can save thousands of dollars in property damage and real estate as well as a human life. This is especially critical for properties that are not located close to fire protection. Homes with central station hookups for security and fire can enjoy a 10 to 15 percent credit on their insurance as well.

As a buyer, consider the alternative assets to having an alarm system. Several types offer panic buttons or immediate access to the police. If you house an elderly person, this can save a life. Alternative services include a silent alarm if a problem should develop. Other systems offer a "chime" that sounds when a door or window is opened. For larger homes, this lets the occupant know that someone has entered the home. Other forms of security are lights that are tripped when there is movement. Commonly found in driveways or large yards, this protection is simple and effective.

Dogs can provide excellent security, however, prospective home buyers may not be dog lovers. Dogs are more common for protection than elaborate systems, but they do pose a problem for those possible homebuyers that are allergic, or are fussy about the evidence of pet hairs and house wear and tear. If your dog is very protective, keep in mind that many people are afraid of dogs, and may hesitate to view the property. When showing the property, make sure the pet is out of sight, so the home can be shown comfortably. A hysterical watchdog can make the showing very unpleasant and uncomfortable for the prospective buyer.

If you are offering your home for sale, be sure to inform your agent of the alarm and how it works. Most systems offer an alternative code for others in addition to the main code for access. Remember, if you can't show it, you can't sell it. Buying is an emotional situation at the beginning, and you want the buyer to be exposed to the property to make that decision.

When the alarm goes off for any reason, with a real estate sign in the yard, it is very common for the police to call the agent for assistance. Make arrangements with your agent as well as a neighbor should this scenario arise.

People want security for many different reasons. Alarms offer many levels of service, and can offer much more in the way of personal security than material security and be an asset for resale.

Questions and comments may be directed to Terri Murphy, Box 6234, Libertyville, IL 60048.

Hess

tory margin in 1982 was 353 votes, Hess joked, "I think some Republicans still are looking for those votes."

State Sen. Grace Mary Stern (D-Highland Park) was unable to attend because of the special veto session in Springfield, but she sent a letter pointing out that Linda enjoyed a "Four star career" in Lake County politics.

U.S. Sen. and Mrs. Paul Simon sent a letter of congratulations. County Board Rep. Carol Spielman (D-Highland Park) presented the outgoing clerk a resolution from the Republican-dominated County Board hailing Hess' exemplary public service.

Rainbow Path is bought out

Children's Discovery Centers of America, headquartered in San Rafael, Calif., has officially announced the purchase of the Rainbow Path schools in Arlington Heights, Buffalo Grove, Lake Zurich and Libertyville. The centers will retain the Rainbow Path name.

Children's Discovery Centers of America is the nation's fifth largest provider of child care services. A publicly owned company with proven financial stability, CDC currently operates 188 child care centers nationwide, with a licensed capacity to serve approximately 16,000 children.

Over the years, Children's Discovery Centers have enjoyed a fine reputation within the communities served. Although the centers have a consistent standard of quality, each center retains its own character based on the needs of the community. In addition to the programs, the centers offer many custom services, such as parent workshops, parents' night out child care, in-house haircuts, and more. The centers have flexibility with scheduling and working to meet individual family needs. Teachers also receive continual in-service training.

Be sure to take an extra moment with children during holidays

"All I need to do in the next three hours is bake two dozen cookies, make dinner, go to the mall for one last gift, start the laundry and give the kids a bath." Does this sound familiar? Are your days, evenings and weekends packed full of holiday activity?

The holiday rush is on again. Most people have fond memories of childhood holidays and traditions. These happy memories of friends and family are what inspire people to fill their calendars with activities that add stress to already busy lives. Young children also get caught up in the excitement of all the activity.

How can we make these holiday times less stressful and more enjoyable for ourselves and our children?

First, look at your own memories: what holiday activities did you enjoy most? Pick just one or two to introduce to your child.

Be aware of over-exciting your little one. The push and hurry of a mall in December is more stimulation than most adults need. For your child, a quiet evening at home making decorations has much more meaning. Allow sufficient rest time for both you and your child. Keep the daily schedule as relaxed and normal as possible. Decide how many activities actually have to get done before the holidays.

Your child needs you to help her appreciate this special time. An extra story, a hug, a quiet moment by candlelight—these things are free and best for busy children and tense parents.—
by SUSAN LOUGHNER, M.Ed., Education Coordinator, Dehaven Child Care and Learning Center

DEAR MARILYN

Dear Marilyn:

Q: Every day when my children watch television, they run to me with requests for the toys they've seen in the commercials. Some of the toys are expensive and I think my children would lose interest in them very quickly. What suggestions can you make?

A: To begin with, all decisions for purchasing toys belong in the hands of parents. That's you!

Children and relatives should be given guidance as to what you consider appropriate gifts in type, price and quantity. Overdoing of gift-giving can lead to overloading of excitement for young children.

Don't let yourself be pressured into getting toys that the children have begged you for. More than ever, TV should be limited during the weeks leading up to the holidays. Children need protection from the constant stimulation of commercials for various toys and games.

Sometimes, but not always, children can be poor judges of what playthings they really will enjoy. Some toys are too difficult, unsafe, require playmates or are not durable.

Some of the best toys are the ones that lend themselves to imaginative play. Cars, trucks, baby dolls, blocks, and child size household toys, such as brooms and dishes, are but a few.

Creative items make good stocking stuffers—water colors, paste, markers, stickers and pads of paper. And don't forget the magic of books.

Another important suggestion: Don't threaten to withhold toys if a child misbehaves. We know we're bluffing, but the child's uncertainty will make him feel insecure and may spoil his anticipation of the holiday ahead.

Q: My 4-year-old daughter wants to choose her own clothes for preschool each morning. The confusion wears me out before the day starts. What should I do?

A: Even at such a young age, I suggest you permit her to become part of the decision making process. Choices are a great way for young children to learn.

However, be cautious, don't make the process too complicated. Buy her school clothes that blend color and patterns together naturally. You might further relieve morning tension by choosing and laying out her school clothes the night before. This is a wonderful example of a simple task becoming valued time for a mother and daughter to share together.

IT'S THE TALK OF THE TOWN

GET IT OFF YOUR CHEST (708) 223-8073

Newspapers

Lipservice is a phone-in column presented as a feature of Lakeland Newspapers. Lakeland Newspapers makes no claim to the authenticity of the statements. Lakeland Newspapers does not claim the content or the subject matter as fact, but as the personal opinion of the caller. Lakeland Newspapers reserves the right to edit copy or to refrain from printing a message. Call in at 223-8073 and leave your message 24-hours a day. Although the call is anonymous, please leave your village name.

Eat your words

This is for the people of Round Lake Heights. If you are against the marsh and if they vote for Fairfield Marsh, you won't vote for them in April. Tell them that. There are four of them up for election in April. Those four need to vote the way the people want them to. We want no more development. Make Mayor Lumpkin should uphold what he promised the people during the campaign. He said 'no new development.' Make him eat his words.

Scrooge teachers

Thanks for ruining our Christmas. This is for the selfish attitude of the teachers in Round Lake. I am a working mother and bring home about $220 per week. Since the school strike, I have to pay $160 per week for child care at our area Park District. That leaves me $60 per week to care for my family. I don't know how much longer this can go on before I have to wonder about how much food will be on the table. And, there will be no Christmas, for sure. I hope you teachers on the picket line will be thinking about how many of your students you are affecting. I also have a college degree and I don't make $38,000 per year. We, the people of Round Lake, cannot afford these ridiculous pay raises. Go to Barrington or Lake Forest if you are so unhappy. Let the kids get an education. Anyone can be a teacher. It takes a loving and caring person to be a good one. None of you are showing us this. Merry Christmas from a hard-working mother of Round Lake.

Perturbed reader

I have been reading Upservice in the Fox Lake Press for over a year now and have heartily agreed with the calls that have talked about the deplorable proofreading job being done by the paper. This is assuming you have a proofreader. I have kept my mouth shut until now. When I read the article 'New doctor at Westlake' I was appalled. That article states the doctor was born in 'Chili.' Just how big was that bowl? This shows a considerable lack of respect for the new doctor and the readers. Lakeland Newspapers, please work on your proofreading. It is one of the few things that distinguish a professional small town newspaper from a cheap, hick-town rag.

Misrepresented

If Upservice is going to censor and edit the subject matter then they should print whatever the criteria is at the top of the Upservice section. I have called in three times. My first subject was all the drug dealing that was going on in Wauconda near a certain business. The second subject was how the policemen were tearing down garage sale signs, but leaving up political signs. The third subject was how it was turning into a war zone near Routes 12 and 59 with all the hunting rifles and shotguns. None of those subjects got printed. If you are going to choose your subject matter, then you should make it clear so we don't waste our time calling a service that is obviously misrepresented.

Editorial note: The criteria for the fate of each Upservice call is quite lengthy. The disclaimer at the top of each Upservice page, which includes the passage 'Lakeland Newspapers reserves the right to edit copy or to refrain from printing a message,' contains enough words to indicate how we may treat each call.

Safety-Vs-education

I just moved into Round Lake Beach in the last five months. In my dealings with the village and how screwed up things are with the inspectors and the rules, it is no surprise to me the school board cannot come to an agreement with the union. What if the police department or the fire department were going to strike? We know this situation would be rectified before a strike. Obviously, the safety of the people is more important than the education of the children that will one day run this town. Realize your priorities and get your act together.

Political water

I find it very interesting the residents on Spruce and Elm in Fox Lake have to connect with village water on Hickory. The reason must be that a village elected official lives on Hickory.

Filthy woods

I went to visit some friends in Fox Lake in what is supposed to be a classy neighborhood. There are some kinds of wood off of Crestwood and Rte. 59 and they are all full of garbage. There is a broken down truck. It is surrounded by nice houses. And they talk about Round Lake? Their place is filthy.

Thanks Lipservice

Many, many thanks to Upservice because we can have a say in many matters that really count. One example is the teachers' strike. I say this with all honesty. The teachers are already making more money that they earn. Some of the kids can't read and write when they graduate. Get off the street and get back on your job.

Retirement practice

This is in response to 'Practice makes perfect.' The woman who delivers along Route 132 and part of Lindenhurst should retire. She is cranky and makes many errors. We are better off dealing with the mail ourselves.

Killing innocents

With the six children in Milwaukee, the three children in McHenry and the six churchwomen in Indiana last year, that brings the total to 15 innocent people dead because the Secretary of State allows foreigners who can't read, write, or speak English to operate vehicles in our country. None of them have had any insurance. Perhaps we should hold liable the state employees who gave these people their licenses in the first place. We should confiscate everything like they do to us when we get caught with a little pot. It amazes me how excited the authorities get about a little pot when they allow foreigners to kill innocent people.

Tax refund

I ask parents to get organized and get aware of their children not going to school. Teachers should get back to work. Both sides should get arbitration. I asked my congressman for a refund on property taxes that I am paying and my son is not in school for over a month. See LIPSERVICE page C6

Must afford it

This is for 'Can't afford it,' which is about being a property owner in Gavin School District. The schools need much work. The children need it so desperately, they deserved a new school.

Holiday impression

Once again, Fox Lake sort of does it right. The holiday decorations are up but did anyone think to check burned out bulbs before putting them up? It looks especially tacky on Rte. 12. Even my friends from out of town noticed. It's a nice impression you are making, Fox Lake.

Respect education

I am a junior at Round Lake High School. I moved here three months ago from California. "Show respect" asked us to respect the teachers and what they are standing for. These people became teachers because of what the job was. They knew it wasn't going to be high-paying when they took it. Yet, some of them are out here griping about $30,000, $40,000 and even $50,000 per year. They can say it is more than that but if all of that other stuff had been settled before the strike and only the salary argument remained, they would not be out there right now. They should have started looking for other jobs in other districts. We should respect education itself first, not the teachers.

Cowards like us

This is a response about the alleged slander against the developer in Wauconda. Ughen up. Lpservice is nothing but entertainment. People have slandered politicians, postal workers and teachers. What is wrong with slandering a greedy developer? You must remember that people who call into Lpservice are cowards like me who don't have the decency to write in a letter to the editor and sign their names.

Hard work

I am one of the people who gets her leaves raked because I am not able to do it anymore. What a wonderful thing to do. I will never forget seeing all those children and adults working so hard and filling 90 bags with leaves. That was hard work.

End strike

I find it very unfair the Round Lake School Board is spending our time and money to bring in substitutes for juniors and seniors only. Shouldn't they concentrate on ending the strike so all kids can go back to school? This stinks. Does anybody else think so?

Snickering police

I was in branch court in Prairie View/Vernon Hills on a traffic violation. During the entire proceedings, the police officers who were in attendance were laughing, snickering and pointing. I was disgusted, offended and disillusioned with the system. I hope I never have to be subjected to that kind of degenerative energy in people again.

More taxes

I am a taxpayer in the Gavin School District. These people who pushed for the referendum don't know what they are doing to the senior citizens and the low income people in the district. Sure, they gave out some information, but they did not tell the people that in addition to the bond levy there will also be a tax levy. They held it off because they thought nobody would understand. I think people are smart enough to understand that a tax levy means there will be a tax in addition to the bonds.

Editorial note: An article regarding an additional tax levy ran prior to the referendum vote in the Fox Lake Press and the Lake Villa Record.

Silent majority

This is about priorities. The Democrats under Biden, Foley, Metzenbaum and Moynahan all pushed alternate lifestyles. They were for taking away the rights of the American citizens. Kennedy is a womanizer. Diane Feinstein is against assault weapons. Someone should ask her why she carries a concealed weapons permit. The Democrats got a good taste of what it is like. As far as I am concerned they can drop dead. They are the silent majority. It is time for them to act like it.

Missing democracy

Did I miss something? Were the voters of Lake Zurich asked if they wanted to expand their fire department to Barrington or another community? I don't think we were asked. I didn't think the village officials could go and do whatever they want without voter consent. I

Total agreement

This is in response to 'Working stiff.' I must tell you whoever called this in should know teachers would probably agree with them. I used to be a teacher's aid and I don't know any teachers who put in less than 60 hours per week. They would love to be paid $20 for every hour they work, plus overtime pay. They would be glad for a three-week vacation because they are busy working throughout the summer. If you want them to work under your plan, they would be making more than they are now. They would be making over $100,000 per year. You should get the facts on what teachers really do. They do a lot of work that you are not even aware of.

Burning grass

What is the best kept secret in Lake County? Week we read about the police burning two marijuana fields worth $3 million. We have not read a follow-up as to who owned the fields. We would like to see the paper in Wauconda do a follow-up.

Teaching what?

I have a question for the teachers of Round Lake. What made you go into the teaching profession to begin with? Can you even remember? Did someone tell you it was a way to dispense knowledge to make a difference in someone's life? Or, did someone tell you it would be a great being a teacher because you have three months off and the pay is good? I'm wondering if you are going to be giving more to your students when you finally get back into school? Do you think you are already doing enough? I hope you are proud of yourselves because what you are now teaching is how to turn your back on the real issue—the children. If you did not become a teacher for the children, then leave. We do not need your kind in our school system. If you are there for the kids, then unite with them and go back to work.

Minimal spending

I noticed the newspapers did a chart listing how the schools rank in the state regarding funding per student. Antioch rated near the bottom and also spends less for teachers' pay. It is about time the people of this community get behind the high school and the teachers and keep the kids from suffering any more. We need to get this referendum settled once and for all. #### FIGHTING BACK

How To Survive The Holidays

"Deck The Halls With Boughs Of Holly Tis The Season To Be Jolly..."

Most of us believe certain myths about the holidays that are based on childhood memories or media images, such as "The holidays are a great time!", "Everyone is happy and having fun!", and "everyone is with their family celebrating in age-old traditions!"

"The holidays are a great time!" The truth, however, is that the holidays are one of the highest stress times of the year. Some feel the financial strain of feeling obligated to give expensive gifts, even though they cannot afford it. Others build up too many expectations and their already crowded lives are pushed to extremes with the tree trimming, card sending, gift giving, baking, parties, etc. Holidays are work! Everyone handles stress differently, but during the holidays many turn to the overuse of food and alcohol to deal with the stress.

"Everyone is happy and having fun!" For many people, the holidays are not a very happy time. More people feel depressed during the holidays and suicide rates escalate. The point of the holidays for some is not happiness, it is remembrance and reconnection with the meaning behind the holidays. The expectations that are not met lead to disappointments, strains on relationships and guilt.

"Everyone is with their family celebrating in age-old traditions!" But traditions often fall apart due to divorce, death, alternate life styles and hard times.

Given this reality, how can we cope with the holidays and make this time of year a positive one for ourselves? Several things can be done in order to successfully deal with stress. Don't hassle yourself for what you did not do. Take breathers — even 5 minutes of quiet time in a day can make a difference. Go for a walk alone, meditate in your car a few minutes in the lot before going into the office or leaving for home, concentrate on breathing deeply and/or listen to a favorite song.

Discuss the holidays with those who celebrate with you to agree on what you will do, what you won't do, why, and how. Emphasize the meaning behind the holiday and not the commercial aspects. Also, scale down the things you do to make it doable. Spread it out over time — make it a season, not just a day. And don't try to do it all yourself — get everyone involved.

Getting enough sleep and rest and constructively releasing stress are also very important to dealing with the holidays. Constructively releasing stress can be done through exercise crying and raging in a safe environment, rather than numbing yourself with alcohol or other drugs.

Coping with sadness and loneliness can also be very difficult for some during the holiday season. If you are alone and can't be with family or close friends at this time of year, consider how you can use this time to make new connections, or so something of value for others. Remember you are not the only one who is alone and feels this way. Talk to each other. Form "Holiday Support Groups" with others who feel as you do.

Avoid using alcohol or food to cope with loneliness. Decide how much you will drink at a party, if you drink, and do not exceed your limit. If you are unable to do this, consider seeking help, since inability to do so is a sign that there may be a problem with alcohol. Remember not to drink and drive.

If you have lost a loved one recently, and miss that person this year, use the holiday time to remember that person. Talk about holidays you enjoyed together and celebrate that you had that person in your life at all.

Concentrate on the meaning of this time of year and find ways to act on that, rather than on "partying" and "having fun". Think about what you do enjoy about the holidays and use your imagination to emphasize those and de-emphasize the ones you don't enjoy.

To handle the traditions, create new traditions with your family, friends and co-workers that help bring you together in positive ways. Try to de-emphasize money and re-emphasize caring. Also, try to keep those traditions you truly enjoy and that are appropriate to your current situation. These can help stabilize you.

Many holiday traditions involve food and alcohol, but try to find ways to include healthy foods in your holiday menus to cut down on the amount of sugar and rich foods. Some examples are using vegetables instead of chips with dips, using cottage cheese for dips instead of mayonnaise and sour cream, and putting out trays of fresh fruits as alternatives to cookies and cakes. In addition, make non-alcoholic beverages available at all celebrations.

Holidays can be enjoyable, but more importantly, they can be a time of re-dedication to what makes life most meaningful to you. Don't let all of the ads and false expectations drag you down. You are in charge of your life and of how this time of year goes. Decide to make it right for you and all around you — it could be the best holiday season of your life!

Here's hoping your holiday is trimmed with love, joy and other good things!

Comical tombstones

I believe the businesses in Round Lake Beach deserve more respect because they often give back to the community. There are no businesses on Hawthorne Dr. and that is why no one is gipping about it. If a straight road is going to turn into a roller coaster road, then every business should have the right to speak up about it. P.S.: I think the tombstones were funny.

Golden eggs

I'd like to extend a speedy recovery to former Mayor Sandra Morris of Round Lake Heights. Hurry and get back to our village. The chicken man is really laying some eggs. It is time to come back and clean out the hen house.

Doing swimmingly

When will the elected official give some consideration to the citizens of Grayslake? The storefront library has inadequate parking. The historical society has inadequate parking. There aren't enough places for clubs and organizations to hold meetings. Now, we hear they are discussing a swimming pool. What are their priorities? You tell us, the taxpayers.

Go back

This is in response to 'Native Language' and 'Signs of language.' If people don't like the English language, they should go back to where they came from.

Ask Ralph

I am calling about Mayor Ralph Davis of Round Lake Beach. About 15 years ago, he used to substitute at Round Lake High School. Ask him why he is no longer subbing? When he was a school board member, why did he have to end up suing the Round Lake School Board?

New education

I am a life long resident of Lake County, not from Round Lake. I am amused by the relationship between the over paid teachers and the totally uneducated pupils. If we had school vouchers, private school systems would be the way to go. The overpay for the teachers would end. Even better, the students would learn something.

Slumlord defeated

Many thanks to the Lake Villa building inspector and Lake County representatives for their commitment to do the right thing when confronted with a slumlord apartment manager. These men proved that public service on the local level is something to be proud of. We thank them deeply.

Volunteer sirens

This is in response to 'Crying wolf' regarding the sirens in Antioch. I don't know what their business is but they should take pride in the volunteer fire and rescue department. Those alarms are for them. They are there to help someone in need. Get used to the sirens.

Ousting petition

I want to know if the person who is circulating the petition to oust four Round Lake School Board members is the same person who is calling and threatening my mother, who is one of those board members. If it is a parent, they are not setting a very good example for their children. If it is a teacher, then I no longer trust those people to educate my children. I also want to remind all Round Lake residents it is because of us that the schools are strapped for cash. We keep rejecting referendums that would give them some relief. As for the teachers, I am always happy if I can get a 3 percent increase.

What makes them think that 5 percent or 10 percent is what they are worth? Nobody gets that kind of increase any more.

Does not compute

This about the article the Wauconda Leader ran on the high school. It said the high school is spending $75,000 to purchase 20 computers. They are also purchasing two printers and software. Is this a misprint? It must be because anyone who is informed on today's prices knows they can buy a 486DX computer with software and printer from a leading electronics chain for $1,800. This equals $36,000 for 20 computers. This gives them 18 more printers and all the software they need. Please, tell me that was a misprint.

Board limitations

When Fox Lake Mayor Hamsher took office, he vowed there would be no more boarded up buildings or store fronts. What is the statute of limitation for the old Roaring 20s Tavern to remain standing boarded up for many years before it is rebuilt or torn down?

Vacuum vote

I am calling about the voting down of the leaf-collecting issue in Antioch. During the winter, I reside in the suburbs of Chicago and we have a vacuuming program there. It is a wonderful service. If it is only $6 per year, it would cost more for people to buy the bags. With this service, all you have to rake them out to the street and the truck comes by and cleans them. If you don't have trees, your neighbor's trees would cause enough trouble to be worth it. Vote on this again.

Play ball

This is for the person who was from Deer Pointe Trails calling about Softball City. I want you to know although it hasn't been there as long as the train tracks or the fire station, it has still been there a very long time. You were just crazy if you moved there and didn't think it would stay around. The people there are controlled, not animals. You should have researched it before you moved there.

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS

Dear Friends,

This is not the easiest letter for me to write, because it is actually to say Goodbye. After 70 years, Henderson's Jewelry is about to go out of business. As a result, Wednesday, November 16 will mark the kickoff of a brief Going out of Business sale. Everything must go, including the entire inventory of fine diamonds.

I would like to retire. My intent was to sell the store as a going business, but I could not find anyone who would continue the business' fine reputation and ethical practice. I have made the decision to close the doors forever.

I am particularly grateful to all of you for having made my years in business so pleasant and successful. I look forward to seeing you and to servicing you in the remaining days here at the store.

Sincerely,

Mary H. Lorenz

Of Ingleside, Illinois passed away November 24, 1994 at the Northern Illinois Medical Center in McHenry.

She was born in Ireland and on February 6, 1941 she married David G. Lorenz. She had lived in Cahir, County of Tipperary, Ireland and in Barrington before moving to Ingleside in 1966. Since 1925 she was the co-proprietor of Hogan Kennel until 1966 in Barrington and from 1966 until the present in the Ingleside area. She was a member of St. Peter's Catholic Church in Volo and was an avid grower of roses.

She is survived by her husband David; 2 children, Katherine Lorenz, of Chicago; and David J. (Nancy) Lorenz, of Ingleside; 2 grandchildren, Christine and Elizabeth Lorenz; and 2 sisters, Monica Gallagher, of Barrington; and Dorothy Walpole, of Dublin, Ireland. She was preceded in death by three brothers and one sister.

Funeral Mass was held on Monday, November 28, 1994 from St. Peter's Church in Volo with Rev. Doyle officiating. Interment was at St. Peter's Cemetery in Volo. A visitation was held on Sunday, November 27, 1994 from 4:00 to 9:00PM at the GEORGE R. JUSTEN & SON FUNERAL HOME, McHenry.

Pearl V. Payne

Age 71, of Zion, Illinois, wife of Samuel E. Payne Sr., former County Board member passed away Tuesday, November 22, 1994 at Victory Memorial Hospital following a lengthy illness.

She was born January 30, 1923 in Germantown Tennessee, the sixth child of Henry and Lula Darnell. She accepted Christ at an early age in Tennessee, then moved to Chicago in 1938 and a year later to North Chicago, Illinois joining the First Baptist Church under Reverend E.J. Cole. From there Pearl married in 1939 and moved to Zion, Illinois where she was one of the founders and members of Mt. Zion Baptist Church. She was a Deaconess, Superintendent of the School of Christian Education and former president of the Mt. Zion Choir. She served on the Zion Zoning Committee and was a member of the League of Women Voters.

She is survived by her husband Samuel E. Payne, Sr. 3 sons, Robert (June) Payne, of Zion, Illinois; Richard (Anne) Payne, of Yigo, Guam; Samuel E. (Alyce) Payne, Jr., of Waukegan, Illinois; 1 daughter, Irene V. (Coleman, Sr) Bass, of Beach Park, Illinois; 10 grandchildren; 5 great grandchildren; and 2 sisters, Mattie (Theodore) Williams, and Parthenia Wallace. She was preceded in death by her parents Henry and Lula Darnell, and sisters, Ida Taylor, Mary Grose, Ressie Adams, and Willie Jo McClelland.

Funeral services were held on Monday, November 28, 1994 at 11:00AM from the Mt. Zion Missionary Baptist Church, 2500 W. 30th Street, Zion with Rev. B.J. Gaston, Pastor officiating. Interment was at Mt. Olivet Memorial Park Cemetery. Arrangements were entrusted to the care of BRADSHAW & RANGE FUNERAL HOMES, Waukegan and Zion, Illinois.

The Deadline for Obituaries & Death
Notices is 5 p.m. on Tuesday.

IN MEMORIUM

In loving memory of
Norman G. Hironimus
November 28, 1937 to December 3, 1993.
God looked around His garden
And He found an empty place.
He then looked down upon the earth
And saw your tired face.
He put His arms around you
And lifted you to rest.
God's garden must be beautiful
He always takes the best.
He knew that you were suffering
He knew you were in pain.
He knew that you would never Get well on earth again.
It breaks our hearts to lose you
But you didn't go alone.
For part of us went with you
The day God called you home.

How To Survive The Job Search
By Nancy Sakol

Q: Dear...Search: I am actively seeking employment after many years. I have been self-employed in the home and therefore out of touch with the interview process as I once knew it. Friends have told me to be prepared to answer questions asked of me during the interview. I was hoping you could offer some insight as to what types of questions are often asked and a tip or two. Thank you in advance. R.B. - Lake Forest.
A: Dear R.B. Today's job market is very competitive and therefore requires more than just showing up for an interview. Prepare yourself in any way that you can. Here is a list of some of the most common asked questions we have found. Keep in mind that they are not in any particular order and not guaranteed to be asked since no two interviews are the same. 1. What are your strengths? 2. What are your weaknesses? 3. Why are you interested in working for this company? 4. Do you have references? 5. What did you like best about your last job? 6. What did you like least about your last position? 7. Why did you leave your last employer? I have always found it best before answering any question during the interview, stop briefly, pull your thoughts together, take a deep breath and be sure what comes out is what you want the interviewer to hear. After the interview it is always wise to make some notes about what took place. The reason for this is that quite often it may be days or weeks before you are contacted by the company. If you've been avidly interviewing you may forget details or be confused as to which details belong to which interview. This includes the name of the person who interviewed you. You will want to remember the name of course because you don't want to forget that follow-up letter or card that you should send out to each prospective employer. The soul purpose of this letter or card is to thank them for taking the time to meet with you and at the same time, allowing you the opportunity to express your further interest in their company. I hope these tips help. Good luck.
Q: Dear...Search: While on an interview recently I asked the person interviewing me for his business card. A friend told me that I was wrong for asking for it. I don't see any harm in it, do you? E.H. - Libertyville.
A: Dear E.H. Ask away! It is the professional thing to do. If someone doesn't want you to have their card...they'll just say no.
Note: Nancy Sakol is a licensed personnel professional and President of Superior Personnel in Gurnee. Letters can be sent to Nancy at 4949 Grand Ave., Gurnee, IL 60031.

Retailing isn't what it used to be. And now, neither is banking.

In fact, we're bringing them much closer together. In the Super Kmart Center going up in Round Lake, NBD is opening a new branch. And though a bank in a grocery store or mall is nothing new, in this relationship everything is new.

Employees at these banks will be active participants in the retail program. This means they won't be shut up in a kiosk, stuck behind windows or big desks all the time. They will be part of the retail experience, taking NBD's products and services to the shoppers.

Sounds exciting, doesn't it? And even better, your retailing experience makes you a perfect candidate to join this revolutionary approach to banking. Consider the following:

PERSONAL BANKERS

Part-time - 20 to 25 hours per week. (Weekend hours included)

Your responsibilities will be a dynamic mix of traditional banking duties and aggressive marketing, servicing customers and seeking to capitalize on cross sales opportunities. You must be a self-starter with a sharp eye for success and retail sales/customer service experience. CRT experience is preferred.

New realities in retailing demand new ways of banking. Help us define them. Please call to schedule an interview appointment:

It Came Upon the Midnight Clear

Cantabile

1. It came up-on the mid-night clear, That glo-rious song of
 2. Still through the clo-ven skies they come, With peace-ful wings un-
 3. O ye, be-neath life's crush-ing load, Whose forms are bend-ing
 4. For lo! the days are has-t'ning on, By proph-ets seen of old, From an-gels bend-ing near the earth, To touch their harps of gold, Peace furl, And still their heav'n-ly mu-sic floats O'er all the wear-y world: Alow, Who toil a-long the climb-ing way With pain-ful steps and slow: Look old, When with the ev-er-cir-cling years, Shall come the time fore-told, When on the earth, good-will to men From heav'n's all gra-cious King." The bove its sad and low-ly plains They bend on hov-er'ing wing. And now, for glad and gold-en hours Come swift-ly on the wing: Oh the new heav'n and earth shall own The Prince of Peace their King, And

 ev-er o'er its Ba-bel sounds The bless-ed an-gels sing—rest be-side the wear-y road And hear the an-gels sing—
 the whole world send back the song Which now the an-gels sing—

HOBART

The Hobart, with a three foot overhang all around, was inspired by the "prairie houses" designed by the great architect Frank Lloyd Wright. He believed that wide overhanging roofs made a house belong to its environment.

The front of this home, with its covered porch railed and skylighted, is an inviting sight. The brick and wood exterior lends a quaint charm to this beautiful design.

Step through the vaulted entry, and the openness of the floor plan is immediately evident. To the left, the vaulted dining room, with overhead plant shelves on either side and a large bow window, make this a place where meals can be slowly savored while enjoying the view.

The large, vaulted family room is where you'll want to gather on cold winter nights. Here the heat from the corner fireplace fans out into the entire room. In warmer weather, step out onto the huge back deck. There is room enough here for the whole gang to have a barbecue and relax in the hot tub.

Whoever does the cooking in the family will love this kitchen. Meals can be prepared and served with a minimum of difficulty. It features a recessed breakfast nook, large garden window, island pantry, eating bar and cooktop with grill.

The sleeping quarters are at opposite sides of the house. To the left are two identically sized bedrooms. A full bath between acts as a sound buffer. On the opposite side, is the isolated master suite. Luxurious is the operative word here. It features a vaulted sleeping area, walk-in closet with a laundry pass-through directly into the utility room and a huge private bathroom with separate basins, vanity and raised bathtub topped by a skylight.

Down the hallway from the master suite, is a utility room with built-in ironing board and a pass-through recycling unit that goes directly into the garage. A full bath shares the hallway. The remaining room, at the front of the house, is designated as a television studio/entertainment center.

For extra storage space, or more living area, there is a 240 square foot attic and an unfinished basement with an additional 1636 square feet.

For a study kit of the HOBART (334-100), send $9.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring Landmark's most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

Christmas Tree Directory

Choosing a tree can be fun for whole family

A few simple guidelines can make selection of a fresh, natural Christmas tree more fun and the best value for your money.

1. Determine where in your home you will display your tree so that you will be able to tell what size and shape you need.

2. Do a freshness test: the needles should be resilient. Hold a branch about six inches from the tip, pull your hand toward the tip, allowing the branch to slip through your fingers. Needles should adhere to the branch and not fall off in your hand.

3. Another freshness test: lift the tree a couple inches off the ground, then bring it down abruptly on the stump end. Outside, green needles should not fall in substantial number. Remember, inside needles do turn brown and shed naturally every year.

4. A good fragrance and green color indicate freshness.

Caring for your real

Christmas tree is easy—the most important thing to remember is that real trees need water—just like a fresh bouquet of flowers.

1. Make a fresh cut across the base of the trunk about one-quarter inch is enough. When a tree is cut, a seal of sap occurs naturally over its stump which keeps moisture in the tree. It's important to break that seal to allow the tree to "drink" in the water needed to keep it fresh throughout the holidays.

2. Put your tree in a water holding stand immediately. If you are not ready to decorate it, put it in a bucket of water within 12 hours of making the cut.

3. Keep plenty of water in your stand. A Christmas tree may absorb a gallon of water in the first 24 hours it's up and several quarts of water thereafter.

4. Position your tree away from heat sources, fireplaces and television sets.

5. Be sure that all light cords and connections are in good working condition and not frayed. And don't forget to unplug the lights when you go to bed or leave home.

Remember, for every tree cut, Christmas tree farmers plant two to three new seedlings to ensure you will never miss the joy and happiness of a real Christmas tree.

Food will be donated to a local P.A.D.S. Shelter or C.O.O.L. Food Pantry in your community.

How To Write A Bestseller.

Give the reader all the specifics.

Pretend you are someone reading the classifieds. What would you like to know about the item, service or job you are advertising? Be sure to add details such as:

- color • size • condition
- brand name • age
- features • and benefits

Be accurate! Don't embellish your ad with misleading information. Stick to the facts.

Include the price.

Don't waste your time or a potential buyer's time. If you advertise the price of the item or service you offer, the people who respond to your ad will be those who are genuinely interested. Surveys show that readers are more interested in those items and services they know are within their price range.

Avoid Abbreviations.

Don't make a potential customer work too hard! Although you may be tempted to cut down on the cost of your ad by using abbreviations, surveys indicate that many people don't understand such abbreviations as EIK (eat-in-kitchen) or WSW tires (white side wall) and won't take the time to figure them out.

Include phone number & hours.

Let potential customers know when and where to call. Surveys show that even if a person is very interested in your item or service, he or she will not call back after the first attempt. Stay near the phone during the hours you indicate you will be available. Don't risk missing a sale!

Run consecutive weeks.

Your ad will not get results if people don't see it! Therefore, it is important to set up a consistent and consecutive ad schedule with your sales representative. Run your ad for at least two weeks.

The Lakeland Newspapers friendly classified advertising representatives are happy to assist you with your ad over the phone. They even assist you with writing your ad. Just call (708) 223-8161 to place your classified ad. Representatives will help you with your ad by phone Monday thru Thursday, 8 am to 8:30 pm, Friday 8 am to 5 pm. You can also place your ad in person at:

Horoscope

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You could easily become aggravated with people who are evasive in business. However, a home matter is settled to your satisfaction. A tendency to be reckless with money needs curbing. Use moderation when socializing.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You'll be receiving some mixed messages this week and you'll have to read between the lines. Partners work well together, however. After several interruptions, you may decide to put off a domestic project until another time. A friend irritates you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Use good judgment in financial transactions. Don't let yourself be imposed upon. Monetary prospects improve in business. Authority figures may be preoccupied and not amenable to requests. The weekend brings social success.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) You may wish that an adviser would speed things up. A partner's behavior may seem a bit odd to you. In business, though, you'll meet with wonderful success. You may have mixed feelings about making travel plans now.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You may be uncertain about a situation at work. At times, this week, you may seem withdrawn. You may feel frustrated in your efforts to raise extra capital this week. Be sure to follow through on commitments.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Things may be unclear in romance this week or dating plans may be subject to change. However, a bond of friendship will grow stronger. Financial backing for a certain project may fall into place now.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Unexpected developments at home may upset your schedule this week. A long-range career plan is brought to fruition. Extra responsibilities at work may interfere with some of your weekend social plans.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Some people will be difficult to reach by phone this week. Travel and educational interests are highlighted. Business gains are also likely to accrue. Concern about a child's behavior may interfere with concentration.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) Do some comparison shopping before making a decision about a major purchase. You may receive an investment tip from an unlikely source. Some last-minute duties at home will have to be dealt with before taking that trip.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) The early part of the week may find you reluctant to make a commitment. Later, you'll be sharing happy times with friends and partners. You may have trouble concerning an investment or financial decisions.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You may be uncertain about a private concern. Your determination will lead to career gains. Try not to get a disagreement about money interfere with relationship harmony this week. Use common sense.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Avoid bossy behavior with co-workers. Say yes to a travel invitation. You're on the right track in business. Progress at work is likely to be intermittent this week. This weekend, social plans may be subject to certain changes.

Create fragrant, traditional holiday potpourri

Here is a recipe for a decorative, scented potpourri that blends traditional fragrances of the season. Ingredients and amounts suggested can be adjusted according to your own creative sense.

- 1 quart fresh evergreen needles
- 10-20 small pine cones
- 1 cup whole bay leaves
- 3 cups holly, sassafras, oak, magnolia or orange leaves
- 3 cups dried orange peel
- 1 cup cinnamon sticks
- 1/2 cup whole cloves
- 1/2 cup juniper berries

Tips:

Preparing this potpourri affords an opportunity for holiday fun for the entire family. It is easy to make, and many ingredients can be gathered from the backyard or on a family outing to a nearby woods. A two-foot bough will yield several quarts of needles. To remove the needles from a fresh bough, use large scissors and work over a deep, wide-mouthed bowl, cutting the needles off close to the stem. If you allow the branches to dry for a week or so, you can easily strip the needles off by hand.

Holly contributes immeasurably to the color and texture of this Christmas Potpourri. Tree leaves are a desirable addition and can be used fresh or dry. Crush about half of them before mixing and add the rest whole. If you can find them, add whole bayberry leaves for fragrance and texture.

This holiday potpourri makes a thoughtful and original gift. For presentation fill a basket decorated for the occasion or a Christmas stocking, simply fashioned from red or green net, machine-stitched along the sides and tied at the top with a Christmas ribbon.

CLC to recognize its best in new 'Wall of Fame'

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

A quarter of a century of athletic success will be recognized at the College of Lake County Dec. 8.

The Lancers will unveil the new Wall-of-Fame, at halftime of the men's basketball game with Harper.

For some of the 50 members of the team, the ink is fading on their CLC diplomas and the memories lingering from two years of sports. For others, the ink is fresh and the memories as accurate as last softball season.

"This is something long overdue," Gene Hanson, athletic director, said.

Hanson had praise for the 11 chosen.

"I tried to go through and select the best at each position. I would take those 11 guys and it would be hard for us not to win the state title every year," Hanson said.

Herb Blackburn recalls playing on Hanson's first baseball team at the Grayslake school.

"We were not that far apart in age. I had just gotten out of the service, so I was older than most of the other players. Gene was only a few years older. He was a tough disciplinarian but was very fair an excellent coach," Blackburn said.

Blackburn played catcher for two years for CLC after prepping at Mundelein High.

all-star game each September.

"Considering the numbers of players who have played there, I was pretty honored and humble to be chosen," Blackburn said. He is now self employed and residing in Johnsburg.

Another catcher from a different era, Joe May, also will be honored as one of the 11 baseball players selected.

"I was very surprised to find out I was chosen. I felt we could compete with any level except Division I," May said.

The Lancers were 41-6 his sophomore year, 1979 and were second in the state.

"I enjoyed the playing talent. After we played against players in high school, we played with them at CLC," he said.

May went on to play for White Sox legend Eddie Stankey at University of Southern Alabama. "He was the old school, with crew cuts and strict curfews," May said.

May played sparingly last year for the Zion Dill Brothers semi-pro team. His last full season was 1992.

Also chosen for baseball:

Mike Gertz, an outfielder and first baseman in 1981-82.

Dan Miller, who won 14 games as a pitcher and played where needed on the 1975 and 1976 teams.

John Dehaan, who played third and second base in 1975-76.

Ed Sedar, an outfielder, relief pitcher on the 1980-81 team.

Ray Sallanas, a pitcher on the 1989-90 team and who filled in as needed.

Mark Ledinsky, a pitcher who was 9-1 in 1991, hit 17 home runs and 80 RBIs and was also an assistant coach later.

Kurt Bruksch: led last year's state champs and played first base.

Selected for softball include: Jill Tegtmeyer of Libertyville, Sheryl Panek of Fox Lake, Kathleen Quilty of Libertyville and Kelly Damron of Antioch. All except Damron were pitchers.

"When Gene mentioned the wall-of-fame, Tegtmeyer immediately came to mind. Her first See FAME page C31

CLC men earn split, ready for Harper challenge

College of Lake County's mens basketball team earned a split at Harper's Thanksgiving tournament, keeping their overall record above .500.

CLC (4-3) downed Milwaukee Area Technical College 78-70 but lost to Harper 84-82. Earlier, CLC downed College of DuPage 98-88.

CLC is at Rock Valley Dec. 3 and hosts Harper Dec. 8.

Ronzeyl Newsome led the effort in the win over Milwaukee Tech as he scored 19 points with 3 three-pointers. Kenlan Williams had 12 and 2 three-pointers and Manuel Stutts 11 points.

CLC trailed 40-31 at halftime.

"We played better defense and got a couple of three's," CLC Coach Bruce Smith said. "They controlled the first half of the rebounding and we controlled the second half."

CLC had a huge 58-36 lead at halftime against Harper. But by the second half's midpoint, Harper had trimmed the gap to 13 points. Manuel Stutts had 27 points, Justin Hanlin 18.

The Lancers were able to hold on against College of DuPage. Stutts had 22 points, Newsome 18 and Hanlin 15.

Slate Street Billiards offers up-scale night of pool

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Imagine a thirtysomething wife leading her blindfolded husband into a pool hall for a special birthday celebration.

That's what Robin Wolf, a French teacher at Deerfield High School, did to her husband Brian, a third-grade teacher at Everett School in Lake Forest, at Slate Street Billiards in Vernon Hills. Over 10 years ago, Brian promised Robin he would propose marriage to her if she could beat him at a game of pool. Brian eventually lost—or won, depending upon how you look at it.

They've been married now for 11 years and have two kids, but pool will always mean something special to the Wolfs.

What's the point?

Gone are the days of smoke-filled pool halls, frequented by hustlers and the rowdy type.

Thanks to establishments like Slate Street, today's billiards rooms are a classy, up-scale, coed, entertainment option.

At Slate Street, mahogany tables and slate floors add a sense of stately decor. House cues that go for $250 a piece have replaced chipped sticks. It's a pool hall where cappuccino and espresso are preferred over beer.

"We did it first-rate, top-of-the-line to create an atmosphere of up-scale as you can get," said Jim Harp, co-owner of Slate Street.

Fellow co-owner Carl Hahn says people, women generally, remark, "I was afraid of the pool hall image, but this is nothing like I imagined."

Slate Street opened for business in April and already it has made a national name for itself. Annually, "Billiards Digest" selects the 10 best new billiard rooms in the country. This year, Slate Street was chosen as the sixth-rated new facility in the United States and the most up-scale billiards room, bar and restaurant in the Midwest.

Between the bar, a state-of-the-art sound and music system, billiards and darts, Slate Street could very well be the entertainment facility of the 1990s.

"You don't have to sit in a bar and do nothing," Harp said.

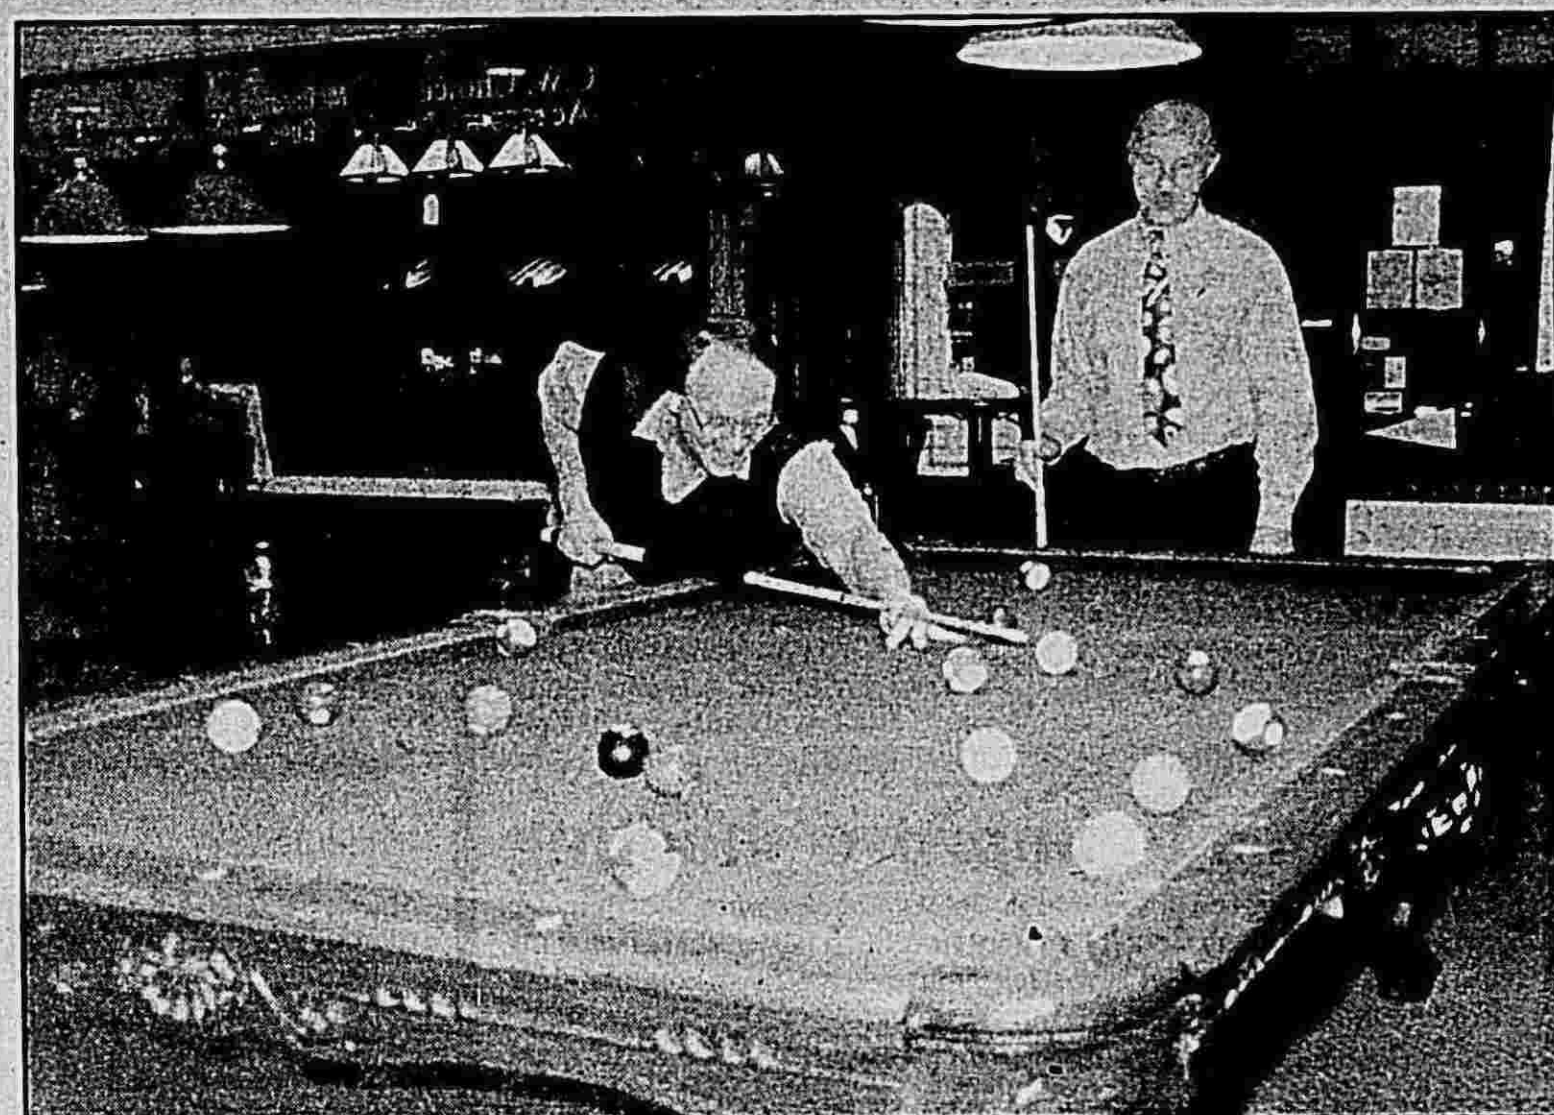

Billiards, as a mass participation sport, grows annually by 15 to 20 percent a year, second only to bowling. And women comprise most newcomers to the sport.

"A lot more women are being drawn to the sport because of the up-scale environment," Harp said.

"The place is so nicely done that you want to bring a date," said Hahn, who was sporting a tie with pool balls on it.

According to Billiard Digest, Slate Street also boasts the largest pro shop in the Midwest with approximately 150 cues on display ranging from $49 to $8,750. It also offers a wide assortment of cue cases, clothing, training See POOL page C31

Cooney signs with Rangers, may catch, play first base

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Jim Cooney spent several summer nights at the ballpark watching the Texas Rangers play.

Before too long, he may be calling pitches or stretching for errant throws for the American League team.

Cooney, age 22, signed a minor league contract with the Texas Rangers. He will report to the Rangers spring training facility in Florida in February, pending the status of the baseball strike.

He is expected to play catcher and first base.

Cooney played winter ball in the Dominican Republic after a successful summer for a Dallas team, the Golden Jaguars, where he hit .412. The team advanced to its World Series in Battle Creek, Mich.

"I learned a lot from that team with its professional coaching staff," said.

Cooney had his start in baseball at Avon Township and his eighth grade team won a championship. Then it was on to Carmel, where he played on the 1991 squad which advanced to the Elite Eight.

"I got my foot in the door. That is all I wanted," he said.

"For raw talent, he was outstanding. He was a very strong hitter who could hit with power. He had an excellent arm and was very mobile," CLC Coach Gene Hanson said.

Cooney was an all-conference player at CLC, hitting around the .300 mark both years. He was 13-4 as a pitcher.

"He gave us two good years. He had a number of places (colleges) where he could have gone. I am very proud of Jim," Hanson said.

"I am a hitter now," Cooney said.

Cooney was always a hard worker, but now he has to settle on a position, Hanson commented.

Cooney, also played for University of Texas at Arlington as well as the Shoreline League Gurnee Indians.

Cooney is a Grayslake resident.

He joins Kyle Kessel with the New York Mets, Scott Stahoviak with the Minnesota Twins and Tim Unroe with the Milwaukee Brewers as area grads in the minors.

CLC women look to gain confidence after first win

College of Lake County's women's basketball team registered its first victory at the Harper Thanksgiving tournament.

The Lancers downed Milwaukee Area Technical College 57-55 Saturday, making up for a 63-53 loss to Harper.

"The win should really give us a boost. After you get one, you know you can do it," Coach Don Zeman said.

Wauconda grad Amy Scharlu scored 21 points and Deb Pope had 10.

With the score tied 53-53, Ria Cruz and Scharlu gave the Lancers key baskets in the waning moments.

"The big difference was

The second-half was a workmanlike effort against the taller, more physical Milwaukee Tech team.

Antioch grad Mandy Jacobsen led the way with 10 points and Nicole Pollard had 8.

Against Harper, CLC was led by the Round Lake connection of Pollard's 13 points and Casey Bass with 10. CLC trailed 34-22 at halftime.

The Lancers have non-conference games this week. After hosting Joliet Nov. 29, CLC is at Moraine Valley for a 5 p.m. game Dec. 1 and at Rock Valley for a 1 p.m. game Dec. 3. College of DuPage visits CLC at 5:15 p.m. Dec. 6.

CHS aims to improve shooting

Although losing all three games in its Thanksgiving tournament, Carmel boys basketball Coach Ben Berg now has a better idea of what his team needs to improve on. Carmel fell 69-58 to Fremd in the opener, then lost 83-47 to Waukegan and 85-51 to Warren.

"We have to shoot in the mid 40 percent. Anything below that and we will have a tough time winning," Berg said. Carmel shot 33 percent against Warren. Warren sizzled the nets for 55 percent, including a 9-for-13 first quarter. Warren controlled the rebounds, 43-23.

Bill Koch, a 6-foot, senior forward, was one of the bright spots, scoring 11 points to lead the effort against Warren. Dan Graham also had 11.

Early deficits cost Carmel in both games, down 26-9 against Warren and 17-8 against Waukegan. Carmel stayed with Fremd for three quarters plus before a turnover bug-a-boo rose its ugly head. Carmel fell victim to two big men leading opposing team's scoring Waukegan's Jason Black and Warren's Joe Bongratz both had 19 points. Carmel hosts St. Catherine's of Kenosha in non-conference action Dec. 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The game was right there for the taking.

Carmel High's boys basketball team could have scored a major season-opening upset as the Corsairs trailed Fremd by just one point with 6:38 remaining.

But Fremd, led by 32 points from Paul Tharp, muscled its way to a 69-58 win.

"They played hard and put it on the line, but our inexperience got the better of us," Coach Ben Berg said.

Carmel's Eric Ames led his team in scoring with 13 points.

Ruben Rivera, coming off a 19-touchdown football season, worked his way to 10 points, on four third quarter field goals.

"Ruben is one of the more athletic kids on the floor, but he needs to improve on some areas," Berg said. "We did not get out and run as quick as we could have."

gin with 1:32 left.

It was the fourth field goal off a Carmel turnover.

"Tharp is a great player, but there were times we just missed him," Berg said.

"His playing as a sophomore last year really helped him."

A three-pointer by Pete Brown gave the home team a 19-10 lead after one.

Carmel still led 37-34 at half-time as Ames added two more second-quarter field goals.

year was my first year," current softball Coach Sue Garcia said.

On Quilty: "She had was a pitcher who had a lot of control. She was one of the best in the state," Garcia said.

On Damron: "She was an amazing outfielder," Garcia said.

All went on to four-year schools, Tegtmeyer to National Louis University; Quilty to St. Mary's of Kansas; Panek to Camron University in Oklahoma and Damron is playing softball at Western Illinois University. Men's basketball players to be honored include: Joe Walls, Mark Hill, David Tucker, Eddie White, Greg Holman, Greg Washington and Greg Green.

"Joe Walls played the first year of the college, 1969-70. He has the highest points per game average, 30 a game. He was a great defensive player and outstanding shooter," Coach Bruce Smith said.

Tucker and Washington led CLC to regional runners-up status. "Greg could jump out of the gym," Smith said.

White was an All-American in 1992. Holman played in the early 1970s who went on to become a Milwaukee policeman. Green was a point guard from Zion.
